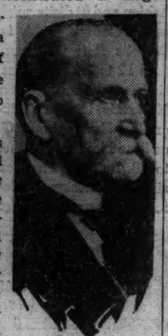
FINLAND ARMS AGAINST REDS

RUSHES TROOPS TO BORDER TO BAR SOVIET GRAB

Have Firm Backing from Sweden.

BY DONALD DAY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
(Map on page 2.)

HELSINGFORS, Finland, Oct. 8.—Finland has concentrated a large army on its frontier with Russia and 10 classes of reserves have been called to the colors.



Kyosti Kallio, President of Finland.

Sweden also has called several classes into the service, and the Swedish and Finnish general staffs already have made their plans should the soviet government begin a war.

This comes at a time when Finland has accepted the soviet invitation for important talks in Moscow.

[An Associated Press dispatch from Stockholm said the impending talks brought the larger northern nations face to face with Russian expansion in the Baltic, which came on the heels of the German-soviet collaboration in Poland.]

Proposals Calmly Awaited.

With approximately 250,000 men under arms and another 300,000 highly specialized and trained fighters, members of the home guard organizations ready, Finland is calmly awaiting the proposals which the soviet government is expected to make to Finland's delegation which will arrive in Moscow shortly.

The Finnish minister to Sweden, Juhu Kusti Paasikivi, is to head the Finnish delegation. His appointment was hailed with general satisfaction here because he is well informed on Scandinavian views and is regarded as an expert on Finnish-Russian relations. He conducted peace negotiations with Russia in 1920.

The soviet government already has hinted it will sign a favorable trade agreement with Finland provided the Finns agree to cede the Viipuri [Viborg] district, the islands of Suursaari and Levansaari, which threaten the Reds' Kronstadt naval base, together with a base on the Aaland Islands and port privileges at Hanko [Hango].

Turn Down Suggestion.

This suggestion, received by the Finnish government three weeks ago, was termed undiscussable. Finland is prepared to make some concessions at Viipuri and might even dismantle the heavy batteries of 12 inch guns trained upon Kronstadt, but further Russian demands will be categorically rejected.

With intimate knowledge of the conditions prevailing in the famine-stricken Leningrad region where potatoes today cost 2 rubles [40 cents] per kilogram [2.20 pounds], butter 25 rubles [$5] a pound, and where Estonian milk is being sold for ten times the price it brings in Estonia, the Finns have no particular fear of any attack from Russia although they know they need help badly in the air.

Both Finland and Sweden are producing plenty of arms of far higher quality than anything Russia possesses and the threat of an economic blockade of both countries by Russia will be resisted.

Reported Seeking Aid.

MOSCOW, Oct. 8 (AP).—Reliable reports tonight said Finland was seeking diplomatic aid of Sweden and Germany to forestall what she feared might be "excessive" demands from soviet Russia.

The Finns yesterday accepted a Russian invitation for conversations in Moscow similar to those which have resulted in two Baltic nations, Estonia and Latvia, granting broad military and economic concessions to Russia.

The foreign ministers of Turkey and Lithuania were in Moscow on important missions. It was expected an agreement would be reached quickly with the Lithuanian foreign minister, Juozas Urbsys, probably giving Russia military and naval concessions and rights of transit such as Estonia and Latvia yielded.

The Turkish foreign minister, Sukru Saracoglu, attended a concert tonight as his talks with soviet authorities lagged, apparently because a Turkish military mission now is visiting London.

YANKEES SWEEP TO WORLD TITLE; BEAT REDS, 7 TO 4

The Yankees defeated the Reds in 10 innings, 7 to 4, in Cincinnati yesterday to win the world series in four straight games. New York tied the score with two runs in the ninth and added three in the extra inning as Cincinnati's defense fell apart.

The White Sox defeated the Cubs, 8 to 5, in the fifth city series game in Wrigley field yesterday. The south siders won with three runs in the tenth inning after tying up the game in the eighth on a three run rally.

Rich Convict's Escape Auto Is Left in Atlanta

Atlanta, Ga., Oct. 8 [Special].—The state owned automobile in which Richard Gallogly, member of a wealthy family who is under a life sentence for murder, escaped Friday was mysteriously returned here tonight. But Gallogly still was at large, supposedly in the company of his pretty bride.

The automobile was found outside the Atlanta hospital from which Gallogly was taken Friday for removal to a state prison at Reidsville, 200 miles away. In the car were Gallogly's billfold, containing several dollars, two suits of pajamas, and a driver's license which he had obtained fraudulently some time ago.

Believe He Had Accomplice.

Who returned the car and in what manner and why were questions which puzzled Chief State Trooper Lon Sullivan and other authorities tonight. A hospital nurse said she had seen the car throughout the day. Police, who found it at about 6:30 p. m. kept it under surveillance for hours in hopes that Gallogly or his confederates would return to it.

The theory is that after having escaped in the automobile Gallogly hired a confederate to return it. It was obvious, police said, Gallogly would not have wanted to drive in the car, marked with state emblems, any longer than necessary.

This theory was bolstered by reports from Fred Johnson of Gay, Ga., that he saw Gallogly, another man, and a woman in a Ford car in Gay during the day. Johnson says he knows Gallogly and was sure he was one of the men in this machine.

A Challenging Gesture.

The return of the car was considered somewhat of a challenging gesture on the part of Gallogly, who has been the beneficiary of the state's penal system almost since his first day in prison about ten years ago. The favors accorded him created one scandal after another until finally it was decided to remove him to the Reidsville prison.

Gallogly was in the Atlanta hospital at the time. He was removed from the hospital and placed in a state owned car assigned to the Georgia chief prison inspector, for the trip to Reidsville. With him were his mother, Mrs. Worth E. Yankey, his blonde bride, Penal Inspector Joe Freeman, and Deputy Sheriff W. A. Matthews. About 40 miles from the prison, Gallogly produced a gun, forced the two guards and his mother out of the car and drove away with his bride. This was the car returned. Deputy Matthews meanwhile has been locked up for not attempting to prevent Gallogly's escape.

BELGIUM READY TO GIVE BATTLE IF NAZI ARMY SHOULD INVADE IT

Pins Its Faith to Three Defense Lines and Flooded Lands.

Alex Small, who has been writing vivid stories on the breakup of Poland, interrupted his series yesterday to file the subjoined dispatch on Belgium's preparations to resist possible invasion. See Belgian map on page 2.

BY ALEX SMALL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

AMSTERDAM, The Netherlands, Oct. 8.—Invasion of their country by Germany is taken by Belgian authorities as a serious possibility. Their hope of avoiding trouble is based on the chance that the Germans may conduct a defensive war in the west while German diplomacy and armies seek victories in the Danubian basin and other parts of southeast Europe. Such a line of action is considered in competent circles here as the cleverest move which Germany could adopt.

Leopold, King of the Belgians.

Neither the Belgians nor the Hollanders, however, overlook the alternative that the German staff may try to knock out the French army as it did the Polish army with spectacular land and air actions. In that case, the Germans possibly would try to turn the Maginot line by a movement through Belgium, or both Holland and Belgium, somewhat as they did in 1914 when they smashed through Belgium toward Paris.

Defenses Made Stronger.

Both the Dutch and the Belgians are prepared to resist, and the Belgians feel certain that they would hold up the Germans more efficaciously than they did 25 years ago.

The main defensive system lies, as it did in 1914, along the line of the Meuse river. The Liege, Namur and Charleroi fortresses, which were scenes of furious fighting in the early days of the world war, have been modernized. The line on the river has been made into a Maginot defensive system on a smaller scale.

Within the last year, this main system has been supplemented by a new one which begins where the Meuse enters Holland, runs south along the German Luxemburg borders and connects to the French system at Longwy. This line runs through the hilly Ardennes forest.

A neutral observer, who recently arrived in Amsterdam, said the Belgian preparations along the Ardennes line are thorough. The landscape has been covered with casemates, bunkers, barbed wire and tank traps, and all roads and bridges have been mined. The Belgians by mistake blew up two railway bridges, one just after the Brussels-Luxemburg express had crossed. Thousands of machine gun nests have been dug into the hills. A third and lesser line lies between the frontier and the Meuse lines.

Strengthen Dutch Frontier.

The Belgians also foresee the possibility of German invasion north of the Meuse through Holland, and lately have constructed casemates all along the Dutch frontier. These are designed to bear the shock before an invader reaches the fortifications around Antwerp, which the Belgians believe are practically impregnable.

Floods Another Weapon.

As in the world war, the Belgians plan to use flooding for defense. The main water barrier would begin just east of Antwerp along a line to Turnhout, near the Dutch border, and then pass south through Hasselt to Maastricht in Holland.

Should opening of the Belgian dikes become necessary, it is assumed the Dutch also would already have opened theirs, making it impossible for the Germans to use their tanks and other mechanized units.

The Belgians are taking no precautions against France.

Dies Committee's Room Entered; Files Searched

Washington, D. C., Oct. 8 (AP).—Dr. J. B. Matthews, research director for the Dies house committee which is investigating un-American activities, reported to the police today that the committee room had been entered during the night and its files searched. He said he had not yet determined whether anything was taken. Dr. Matthews said a window latch was broken, and that there were foot prints on the broad ledge outside. The room is on the fifth floor of the old house office building. He recalled that the committee's quarters were broken into last March and papers examined.

ROOSEVELT SET, CRITICS SAY, ON AID TO EMPIRES

List Arms Sale as His Contribution.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 8.—It no longer is any secret in official Washington that the Roosevelt administration is working hand in glove with Great Britain and France to defeat Germany in the European war. Such coöperation now dominates American foreign policy.

For this reason President Roosevelt's coolness to Hitler's maneuvering to induce him to undertake mediation occasioned no surprise in administration circles. The fact is that the President at no time will propose mediation unless such action on his part is desired by the British and French governments. They are not ready to make peace on the terms Hitler has proposed and the President is well aware of that fact.

Repeal His Contribution.

Mr. Roosevelt's major contribution to the allied empires' cause is to be the repeal of the American embargo on the export of arms, ammunition, and implements of war to belligerents. The repeal, which may become an accomplished fact within a month, would make the United States a vast arsenal for the allies.

The allied empires want our arms embargo repealed not only to align America with them against Hitler but to get arms and munitions badly needed by Britain and France—chiefly American bombing and other military planes and anti-aircraft guns that otherwise would go to the equipment of the United States army.

France especially, whose production was slowed down to almost nothing under her late Socialist régime, is in dire need of military aircraft and anti-aircraft guns. French officials have informed American aircraft factories that they will need 100 planes a month for an indefinite period.

Building Planes for France.

American factories have been turning out planes for France under the secret agreement Mr. Roosevelt made with the French government nearly a year ago to allow the French to obtain airplanes being manufactured under American army supervision with secret devices perfected by American army experts.

These planes upon which the United States army air corps was to have had first call were diverted to France under the President's secret agreement which was exposed by the senate military affairs committee last winter. A few of these planes have been delivered, but the delivery of the remainder has been halted by the arms embargo. As soon as the embargo is repealed delivery of planes will be resumed.

Predict Defensive War.

Lifting of the arms embargo is looked to by England and France and by the internationalists in this country to produce a profound effect upon the course of the war. It is expected to convince the German people, if not Hitler, that, with the United States aiding the empires, the Germans are up against an unbeatable combination particularly if eventually America were to go all the way into the war against the Nazis.

As the situation is understood here, Britain and France are to conduct a purely defensive war for an indefinite period, aiming to defeat Hitler by the economic pressure of their blockade shutting off from Germany raw materials essential to military equipment and foodstuffs. If Hitler should take the offensive on the western front the cost in personnel and material would be so great as to produce a fatal reaction against the war in Germany, according to the empires' theory. An air attack by Hitler would be met with air reprisals upon Germany.

Hold Selves on Defensive.

While holding themselves on the defensive the foes of the Nazis will pay no attention to peace feelers until the American arms embargo shall be repealed. Then England and France will be in a position, they calculate, to exact more favorable terms from Hitler. Unless he should be willing to make peace on terms acceptable to the allied empires he would be in for a long drawnout war in which the resources of Germany together with those of Russia, and even of Italy, would be no match in the end for the resources of Britain, France, and the United States.

If Hitler then were compelled to make peace on terms acceptable to

PLANES BOUGHT FOR WAR USE PILE UP ON WHARVES

BY WAYNE THOMIS.

American aircraft, motor, and accessories manufacturers are speeding construction of 80 million dollars' worth of warplanes and flying equipment for England and France. The embargo on the shipment of arms to belligerent nations has halted delivery of this material, but the American manufacturers are continuing to fabricate it as rapidly as possible.

A survey conducted by THE TRIBUNE during the last week showed that mountains of crated airplanes and airplane motors are gathering on docks in San Pedro, Cal., [harbor for the Los Angeles manufacturing area] in Baltimore, Md., and in various warehouses in New York harbor. Many planes which are fully equipped and ready for flight are stored at airports on both coasts.

All the material at the docks, it was learned, is held in the name of either the British or the French air ministries. The crated warplanes are prepared for immediate shipment when, as, and if the neutrality law is modified by congress. The air ministry agents say they are assured the law will be modified soon.

Five Plane Factories Busy.

The American factories busy with these foreign warplane orders are: Douglas Aircraft company, North American Aviation, Inc., and the Lockheed Aircraft corporation, all in the Los Angeles area; the Glenn L. Martin company in Baltimore, and the Curtiss Airplane division in Buffalo, N. Y.

Engine builders are the Pratt & Whitney Aircraft division of United Aircraft corporation and the Wright Aeronautical corporation. Pratt & Whitney are in East Hartford, Conn., and Wright in Paterson, N. J. Both the motor builders have sold large numbers of late type constant speed propellers to the British and the French.

In the 12 months prior to the start of the war in Poland and on the western front these manufacturers delivered 360 bombing and training planes to England and 250 assorted fighters, light bombers, and training ships to France. The value of the deliveries up to last Sept. 1 was approximately $69,000,000.

755 More Ships Ordered.

Contracts still held call for delivery of 755 more warplanes, most of them light twin engined bombers capable of speeds of 300 miles an hour. Of this total, 290 are to be built for Great Britain and 465 for France. The French were late in placing their orders and deliveries consequently have not progressed as swiftly as those for the English.

Construction of the planes is progressing only because the American manufacturers protected themselves against possible losses when the contracts were drawn. These documents, in each instance, provided that payment will be made the manufacturer even though the embargo prevents shipment of the products.

Spokesmen said that in some instances deliveries were made to the docks. In other instances the foreign powers took delivery at the aircraft factories. Shipments will be the responsibility of the buyers. None of the builders will lose, even though the planes never leave American soil.

Orders placed by English and French military missions were as follows:

GREAT BRITAIN.

250 Lockheed Hudson bombers, 1,100 h. p. Cyclone motors.
400 North American trainers, 420 h. p. Wasp motors.
35 Wright Cyclone 14 motors of 1,600 h. p. each.

FRANCE.

200 Curtiss P-36 pursuit planes, 1,200 h. p. Twin Wasp motors.
215 Glenn L. Martin attack bombers, two 1,500 h. p. Twin Hornet motors.
100 Douglas attack bombers, two 1,500 h. p. Twin Hornet motors.
200 North American bombers, two 1,500 h. p. Twin Hornet motors.

NAZIS SPLIT ON HITLER EFFORT TO GAIN PEACE

Radicals Insist War Must Go On.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Oct. 8.—While the Nazi press and spokesmen are working overtime trying to convince their readers and foreign contacts that now is the time for an effort to bring the powers of the world to the conference table, one can clearly discern two distinct trends of thought and action among German leaders as well as among the public.

The radical group, which is convinced that war and war alone "can provide Germany with the privileges to which she is entitled in Europe," is slightly in the background at the moment, grimly struggling against the government forces which are straining in an effort to avoid war.

Ready to Make Concession.

After discussing Adolf Hitler's speech with scores of Nazis within the last 48 hours, the impression prevails that Hitler personally belongs to the group that ardently desires peace. In conversations with aids and ministers he revealed he is ready to make a "concrete concession to the ideas of the western powers" on a bigger scale than was discernible in his reichstag speech.

Revival of a Polish state with an outlet to the Baltic sea, liberation of purely Czech territories and creation of Jewish areas to end the anti-Semitic unrest not only in Germany but in other east European countries figure prominently in his conversations. Revival of a Polish state would involve a plebiscite.

Needless to say, the radical group among the Nazis, headed by Heinrich Himmler, chief of all German police, including the GSP [secret police] and Joachim von Ribbentrop, foreign minister, are frantically opposing the "peace drives," claiming "they will be interpreted as a sign of weakness by England and France.

Believe War Is Needless.

Those forces in the government which believe war spells defeat to all those engaged in it, are rallying around Field Marshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering, No. 2 Nazi leader, the army chiefs and their friends. They hold that the "German victory in Poland insured Germany against the suggestion of weakness."

This group says that if the international negotiators who are clever and energetic enough to make use of the constructive elements and aspirations of the warring national groups in Europe can be found now either in England, France, Germany, Italy, and among the neutral powers this continent can avoid the chaos which Europe is approaching. The United States of America is being mentioned with growing frequency as a possible negotiator.

Distrust of Hitler's promises and distrust engendered by pan-German activities of Nazi groups throughout the world are factors with which the Nazis reckon.

Compromise Is Possible.

Hitler would like to go down in history as the man who helped bring about pacification of the national and minority groups in Europe on top of uniting the bulk of Germans. A compromise in this direction is possible as matters stand in the German capital today.

It must not be assumed that the desire for an international conference to prepare for peace was inspired solely by idealistic considerations. Information which the Germans have received from England and France indicate that these countries are preparing for a long drawn out war of position and blockade.

Hitler and his military aids learned that England and France have speeded up production of airplanes to such a degree that within a very short time English and French planes will outnumber the German by far.

Food Situation Precarious.

The food situation, despite the hope of obtaining supplies from Russia and southeastern Europe, is precarious, first, because of the tremendous appetite of the army in action—soldiers must be fed well to fight well—and second, because of the shortage of rolling stock.

More important still is the feeling that Germany cannot blindly trust her Russian partner. Right now Russia is ready to stand by Germany, but for how long? the Nazis ask themselves. Doctors have warned

MERCHANT SHIPS FACING MENACE FROM AIR BOMBS

Dozen Sunk by Airplanes in Spanish War.

BY CAPT. M. M. CORPENING.

During the Spanish civil war the Italian and German bombing planes serving the insurgents found unarmed merchant ships easy marks for their bombs. Records show that from October, 1937, through June, 1938, when the attack on loyalist sea trade was at its height, at least a dozen merchant ships were sunk by bombs and probably another half dozen damaged.

The world war gives precedent in a different way for the use of an airplane as a commerce raider. The German auxiliary cruiser Wolf carried one seaplane called the Wolfchen [wolf cub]. On three occasions in 1917 the Wolfchen scouted out merchantmen and forced them to steer for the Wolf, which seized them. The Wolfchen did this by first dropping a written order on the ship's deck and then dropping a warning bomb off the bow.

Extremely Vulnerable Prey.

Unarmed merchant ships are extremely vulnerable to air attack, and direct hits are not needed to sink them. The explosion of a bomb in the water alongside is frequently enough to stave them in.

In the Spanish blockade airplane bombing was tried more frequently than submarine torpedoing. If the European war develops into a real battle for supremacy, and Britain is able to render the German submarine attack on sea commerce ineffective—which it claims already has been done—it is probable that Germany will resort to bombing merchant ships.

Thus far German subs have apparently tried to obey the rule of warfare requiring removal of crew and passengers to safety before the sinking of a ship, but recollections of the last war will indicate that good intentions may not last long.

Both the attack and the defense in Spanish civil war sea raids were half-hearted and therefore not adequate examples of the great havoc which could be wrought by bombers attacking shipping vessels at sea, in channels, and even at dock.

Merchant ships in a major war will be armed with antiaircraft weapons, but they will not be of the efficiency found on a modern battleship either in number, caliber, or marksmanship. Neither will they carry the battleship's protective armor.

The differences were demonstrated in China. The United States gunboat Panay, inadequately armed against air attack, was sunk in less than an hour by Japanese air raiders. On the other hand, the American battleship Augusta, flagship of Admiral Yarnell, was hit on the main deck by a bomb during the air battles over Shanghai, and while one sailor was killed no damage was done to the ship.

The issue of bomber vs. battleship, the latter heavy with armor and guns, has provided a long and heated controversy, with too little war-time data to prove the point one way or another.

It all started in 1921 when the late Gen. William Mitchell, an American Douhet in his theory of air supremacy, was permitted to conduct a bombing experiment. The German battleship Ostfriesland, a war prize, was anchored off the Virginia capes. First navy planes were given a chance at the abandoned ship, but fifty-seven bombs weighing from 250 to 300 pounds, dropped on or near the dreadnaught, failed to sink her.

Then Mitchell's bombers, taking off from Langley field, flew out and dropped eleven bombs of 520 to 600 pounds. The battleship sank 11 seconds after the first salvo hit. It was determined, however, that the Ostfriesland was drawing water badly before she was bombed and that it wasn't the deck hits, but the concussion of bombs dropping alongside, that scuttled her.

Newer Battleships Stronger.

Again, in 1923, Mitchell's bombers sank two condemned American battleships. Since the construction of the world war battleships, however, heavier armor has been provided for the decks and a large number of watertight bulkheads have been added to protect the hull.

Bombing of battleships in the Spanish civil war, the Chinese war, and the present European war is too sketchy to show that anything more than the fighting tops may be destroyed by bombs.

Bombs were found to be more effective in sinking submarines from altitudes of less than 1,000 feet during the world war. It was also seen that thinly armored destroyers, aircraft carriers, and light cruisers were vulnerable. All are equipped with far better antiaircraft guns now, however.

Airplanes dropped makeshift bombs in warfare on one or two occasions before 1914. The history of the aerial bomb as an instrument of war properly dates, however, from the world war. Until that time the possibility of the airplane as a combat and bombardment weapon had received little serious consideration.

The German high command was the first to exploit the idea that the airplane could be made an artillery piece with a range as long as its cruising radius.

Zeppelins Bomb England.

In 1914 and 1915 seven German planes attempted to bomb objectives in England, with negligible results. They were too weak to carry effective bomb loads such a distance. The German authorities quickly turned to Zeppelins for air raids. Zeppelins passed over London and other English cities more than 160 times in 1915 and 1916, safely dropping their bombs by night.

As soon as adequate air and ground defenses had been devised, however, these elephantine airships proved extremely vulnerable to attack. With the development of stronger planes Germany shifted to bombing planes in 1917, and during that year achieved its best results in England, 341 planes dropping 2,247 bombs, killing 612 persons, and wounding 1,393.

One of the worst raids took place on June 13, 1917, when twenty-two planes arrived over London at noon. Bombs apparently aimed at the Royal Albert docks missed, but then the squadron flew over the area in which the Liverpool street station was centered and dropped seventy-two bombs. Three of them hit the station, and the casualties were heavy—104 killed and 423 injured.

The railroad station was not put out of commission, however. None of the 103 raids on England during the war did significant damage to military objectives such as government buildings, railway depots, docks, ammunition dumps, munition factories, etc.

Raids Affect London Morale.

This was largely true of all air bombing expeditions of 1914-'18, either by Germany or by the allies. Germany dropped a total of 8,578 bombs [270 tons in all] on England, with 3,830 casualties and $14,500,000 damage to show for it. Britain and France in turn made 675 airplane raids on Germany and achieved less, the casualties being 2,589 and the damage $6,000,000.

The chief military value of the raids on London was demoralization. Blackouts slowed up production of war materials, and the explosions agitated the public to demand protective measures out of proportion to the actual danger.

The use of the aerial bomb inspired the well known "Douhet doctrine" of the Italian general Giulio Douhet, who decided that armies and navies were no longer primary factors in winning wars. The first mission of modern war, he said, should be to gain mastery of the air by destroying the enemy's air bases, and the second should be mass air raids on land objectives to destroy the enemy's moral and material resistance.

He figured that 100 pound bombs should be "sowed" 50 yards apart throughout any 500 yard circle in a city for complete destruction in that area.

Get Used to Death from Sky.

But not even the mass morale was seriously damaged in the air raids of the Spanish civil war in 1938-'39, according to military authorities. Douhet died in 1930, and so apparently did his theory. Madrid withstood terrific bombardment both from artillery and bombing plane almost from the first to the last of the war, with the result that large parts of the city were ruined, but the war spirit of the inhabitants, if anything, improved. It was learned that carrying on the functions of a city was largely a matter of getting used to death from the sky.

Barcelona, an even better example of this indecisive result, continued to function as a center of military and civil activity despite 2,000 air raids. In six days, Dec. 5-10, 1938, 455 demolition bombs were dropped on Barcelona, with only minor damage from the military viewpoint. The central electric plant and the gas works, the most likely targets, continued to operate.

This does not mean the destruction of the bomb, even that of 1917, was not terrific. For instance, consider the effect of two of the bombs dropped during forty-one air raids on Barcelona during forty-one hours of May, 1938.

Buildings Fall for 200 Feet.

The two bombs fell near the intersection of two streets occupied by four story buildings. Buildings adjacent to the bomb craters were demolished for a distance of 200 feet. The compression-expansion effect tore down either outside or inside walls for a distance of 250 yards.

The record of aerial bombs against cities is about the same as against armed forces of army and navy—considerable slaughter of personnel wherever massed—considerable destruction of ships and structures not prepared to resist attack—but great difficulty in administering knockout blows to objectives armed or armored to resist them.

The whole issue of aerial bombardment resolves upon the destructive quality of the bomb and the accuracy with which the bomber can hit his target in series.

Belgian Defense System

Belgium has prepared for the defense of its eastern boundary by building a fortified line comparable to the Maginot and Siegfried lines in France and Germany, respectively. Three forts have been modernized and secondary defense systems constructed. In addition plans have been made to flood part of the country as a defense measure.

BRITISH FLYERS SHOOT GERMAN PLANE INTO SEA

LONDON, Oct. 8 (AP).—The air ministry reported today that British planes shot down one of two German flying boats in a battle over the North sea and then summoned a boat which rescued the Nazi flyers.

A communique said the battle began when two British reconnaissance planes clashed with a German flying boat. While the battle was in progress, it added, a second German flying boat appeared and a free-for-all was on.

"Shortly afterward two more British reconnaissance aircraft came on the scene," the communique said. "The British aircraft quickly gained the upper hand. The first enemy flying boat fell into the sea. The second made off.

"After the combat the pilot of one of the royal air force aircraft saw the German crew in the sea, clinging to the wreckage of their flying boat. A ship in the vicinity was directed to the rescue and our aircraft resumed its patrol."

30 U. S. WARSHIPS OF PACIFIC FLEET MOVE ON HAWAII

Detachment Will Double Present Sea Power.

BY JAN JABULKA.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HONOLULU, T. H., Oct. 8.—Developments in the highly accelerated defense program for this spearhead of security in the Pacific, which will double the naval strength of Hawaii and add vastly to its army air power, were noted today.

Officially to continue training in Hawaiian waters, but actually accomplishing the shift of a considerable portion of sea power to the islands, 30 warships of the main Pacific fleet will arrive in Pearl Harbor base Oct. 12 from San Diego and San Pedro.

Described as a fully balanced and fast striking force, the detachment carries 7,500 officers and men under the command of Vice Admiral Adolphus Andrews, who will lead the squadron from temporary flagship headquarters aboard the aircraft carrier Enterprise.

Six Heavy Cruisers.

The detachment consists of six heavy cruisers of cruiser divisions 4 and 6, two squadrons of destroyer flotilla 1, and several smaller craft. The cruisers are all of the heavy type, each carrying four planes. The destroyer flotilla is comprised of 37 units, but only 19 may be included in the Hawaiian tour.

Mainland naval authorities emphasized that the dispatch of the vessels to Hawaii carried out previously formed cruiser and destroyer maneuver plans, and was not to be construed as a stratagem for the permanent reënforcement of the Pearl Harbor base. San Pedro and San Diego will continue as home ports of the detachment, mainland sources insisted.

At headquarters of the 14th naval district at Pearl Harbor, officials said completion of the training games and subsequent departure of the west coast units from Pearl harbor were indefinite. Lending support to the belief the vessels will base here for some time is the series of newspaper advertisments placed by the chamber of commerce, which seeks house and apartmen. rental data. The advertisments apparently were intended to reveal housing facilities for officers and their families ashore.

Add 200 Fighting Planes.

Brig. Gen. Walter H. Frank, commander of the Hawaiian air force, has announced the forthcoming addition of nearly 200 fighting planes to the 18th wing, comprising the air corps in the territory. New aerial equipment will include 112 pursuit planes, 60 to 65 bombers, 14 observation planes, five auxiliary amphibians and three transports.

The new planes will begin arriving within 30 days and as fast thereafter as possible. Gen. Frank's announcement came during the visit to Hawaii of Maj. Gen. Henry H. Arnold, chief of the army air corps. He arrived a week ago by Clipper from the coast on an inspection tour.

The new pursuit planes will be the low wing type Curtiss ships, capable of 300 miles an hour. They are powered by radial motors and have a climbing speed of 10,000 feet in four minutes.

For Use as Convoys.

The amphibians will be the latest type Grummans and are for use as convoys for single engined land planes at sea. The observation planes, the latest under production, will carry three men—pilot, gunner, and observer.

The new bombers will be Douglas made, of the same type now at Hickam field, with up to date modifications.

Gen. Frank has revealed a new departure in the organization of Hawaiian air defense. Attack planes, the third main arm of the air forces, will be sent back to the mainland. Army planes here in the future will be exclusively of the pursuit and bomber types.

Pursuit ships are built for air combat, bombers for bombing assault on surface objectives, attack planes mainly for machine gun and small bomb attacks on ground troops, Gen. Frank said.

Since the islands are not geographically suited to the kind of land fighting in which attack planes would be the most valuable, the army will concentrate on the arms most effective under local conditions—combat and bombing planes.

Hearing Today

Laura Ingalls as she appeared to testify before Civil Aeronautics Authority in Washington, D. C.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 8 [Special].—The Civil Aeronautic Authority's hearing on the revocation of the flying license of Laura Ingalls will be resumed today. Miss Ingalls is charged with flying over restricted sections of Washington to drop "peace" leaflets. She testified at the hearing on Saturday.

that the physical resistance of the population is not strong enough to bear privations for a long period.

These are a few of the reasons why the German high command and Hitler told that a peace compromise is desirable. If it cannot be reached now war must be waged on a big scale on the western front at breakneck speed.

Reds to Rush Supplies.

MOSCOW, Oct. 8 (AP).—Germany and soviet Russia have agreed to realize their program of economic collaboration "at rapid pace and on a large scale," a soviet communique said tonight.

"In particular, agreement was reached that the U. S. S. R. should immediately begin supplying Germany materials and Germany filling orders for the U. S. S. R.," the announcement by Tass, official soviet news agency, said.

The communique was issued after a conference between Vyacheslav Molotov, commissar of foreign affairs, and a special German trade delegation headed by Karl Ritter, former German ambassador to Brazil.

Arranged by Ribbentrop.

"It was agreed in the course of conversation that the economic program concerning which an understanding had been reached during the last visit of the minister of foreign affairs, Joachim von Ribbentrop, to Moscow would be realized by both parties at a rapid pace and on a large scale," Tass said.

The conference came after the visit of Von Ribbentrop to Moscow on Sept. 28 and a friendship agreement announced on Sept. 29 to "consult each other as to necessary measures" to coöperate to restore peace and to work out an economic program so that "the volume of the German-soviet exchange of goods will again attain a high peak."

Foreign observers were dubious of what aid Russia might be able to give the Germans except in wheat and timber.

SPEED GERMAN MIGRATION FROM BALTIC STATES

Nazis Rush Fleet of Ships to Aid Exodus.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

RIGA, Latvia, Oct. 8.—Faced with the problem of breaking ties formed by centuries of residence in Latvia, Estonia, and Lithuania, the German minorities of these countries now are compelled to make the most painful decision of their lives.

Orders from Berlin, communicated by a diplomatic official to the local German citizens at 9:30 o'clock last night, ordered them to present lists of their belongings and property before 10:30 o'clock tomorrow morning. This group will be transported immediately to German ports. The German Balts—families having Estonian, Latvian, and Lithuanian citizenship and many of them descendants of Germans who settled in these countries 700 years ago—have been granted a fortnight to make the same decision.

Ships Ready to Transport Them.

Of the 60,000 Germans in Latvia, 14,000 in Estonia and a still smaller number in Lithuania, many are determined to remain.

Seven steamships, each of 8,000 tons, arrived in Riga harbor this morning and ten smaller ships entered the ports at Libau and Windau to transport the Germans to Germany. It is expected they will be sent to the former Polish corridor and other former German territories acquired from Poland during last month's war.

During the last fortnight German police have been evacuating Poles and Jews from Bromberg [Bydgoszcz], Thorn [Torun], Dirschau [Tczew], Posen [Poznan] and other centers of recovered German territory. The Berlin government wishes to replace those exiled with German families from the Baltic states.

Negotiations With Russia.

Germany also is negotiating with Russia about evacuation of approximately 1,500,000 Germans who were colonized in the Volga, Ukraine and other regions during the reign of Catherine the Great in the eighteenth century.

Tonight, thousands of Germans in the Baltic states were packing their belongings. Cemeteries in Riga were crowded today with families paying what may be their last visit to graves of loved ones. This evening candles burned on hundreds of graves as tokens of farewell.

Homes Are Lost

(Story in adjoining column.)

Germany has started the movement of Germans living in Estonia, Latvia, and Lithuania back to Germany. The Nazis also have started removing Poles and Jews from a number of Polish cities now in German hands.

LONDON HAS BIG FIRE—BLACKOUT TAKES NIGHT OFF

LONDON, Oct. 8.—London's new famous blackout was considerably lightened tonight by a big fire in a furniture warehouse in fashionable Belgravia. The fire, which lighted the skies for miles around, destroyed much valuable furniture stored in the warehouse by peers and other fashionable persons who live in the area.

The duke of Kent, who is on duty with the fleet "somewhere in the north," was one of the people who stored furniture in the warehouse, which had three square miles of floor space. Most houses in the area are closed, the women having left for the country and most men having joined the fighting forces.

The fire gave the augmented London fire department its first big workout of the war. Regular firemen, working in their steel helmets, were helped by men and women members of the Auxiliary Fire service.

CONVOY REACHES LINER IROQUOIS, NAVY ANNOUNCES

Vessel Under Guard After Nazi Charge of Plot.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 8 (AP).—The navy announced today that the liner Iroquois now was under escort of naval vessels.

Officials would not disclose what vessels formed the escort, nor the position of the liner which the German naval command had advised would be sunk "though a repetition of circumstances which marked the loss of the steamship Athenia."

The 6,209 ton Iroquois left Cobh, Ireland, Tuesday with a crew of 275 and 584 passengers, virtually all of whom are Americans. The ship is due in New York Wednesday. It is believed to be at least two-thirds the way across the Atlantic. The ship's master has wirelessed several times it was proceeding safely.

Destroyers Sent to Meet Ship.

Four destroyers and a coast guard cutter were dispatched to meet her after the head of the German navy, Grand Admiral Raeder, informed the American naval attaché in Berlin that, according to information on which he relied, the Iroquois would be sunk when it neared the American coast.

While Admiral Raeder did not say how the Iroquois would be sunk, his reference to the Athenia left the implication that Germany was laying the blame in advance on France or England. Germany has denied that a Nazi submarine torpedoed the Athenia, British liner sunk on the first day of the war.

Report Sub off Maine.

Portland, Me., Oct. 8 (AP).—Arthur Greenleaf, Maine commissioner of sea and shore fisheries, reported that he had "positively" sighted a partially submerged submarine early today five miles southeast of Portland lightship.

Officials at the navy yard at Kittery said there were no American submersibles in that vicinity.

Greenleaf, making a routine patrol of coastal waters, said he plainly saw the gray outlines of a sub at 2:40 a. m. from a motor boat and that the vessel, which he estimated was 150 feet long, came within 50 yards of his craft, half circled it, then headed out to sea.

Two sea and shore fisheries wardens, Fred Duplissy and Luther Greenleaf, who were with him, confirmed the report.

Normandie in Mothballs.

New York, Oct. 8 (AP).—The Normandie, largest and costliest liner afloat, was packed away in mothballs today.

The 83,423 ton, $50,000,000 French liner—moored at her pier here since her arrival Aug. 28—apparently was to stay here for the duration of Europe's new war.

Fourteen barrels of mothballs were used to preserve her luxurious furnishings which were crated and packed away. Other equipment has been dismantled.

She has not been painted the dull gray like other belligerent ships that have scooted across the submarine-infested Atlantic. Her original colorings have not been touched. That was another indication she would remain tied up.

About 700 of her crew have returned to France.

Antiaircraft Battalion Is Landed in Porto Rico

San Juan, Porto Rico, Oct. 8 (AP).—The first battalion of the 69th coast artillery corps, an anti-aircraft unit from Fort Crockett, Texas, landed here today from the U. S. army transport Saint Mihiel.

Items Which Weren't Headlined in Recent War News

According to German sources, French artillery has scarcely scratched the German pillboxes on the heavily fortified frontier. Concrete walls of the modern fortifications are as much as 12½ feet thick. The French shells are said to have penetrated only a few inches.

Jugo-Slavia, Rumania, and Hungary simultaneously announced a reduction in armed forces. Diplomats saw in this action a movement toward Balkan neutrality.

Germany Will Draft Dogs as War Field Messengers

BERLIN, Oct. 8 (AP).—Dogs capable of being trained as field messengers will be drafted into the German army. Owners of such breeds as shepherds, airedales, terriers, and boxers were ordered to report them, starting tomorrow.

BAYONNE, France, Oct. 8 (AP).—France is peacefully arranging a settlement of her southern boundary with Spain. Delegations from the two countries yesterday began tracing the frontier near Saint Etienne-de-Baigorry, southwestern France.

BLAST SINKS SHIP IN FLAMES OFF COAST OF BRITAIN

41 in Crew Rescued by English Vessel.

LONDON, Oct. 8 (AP).—The Holland-Amerika freighter Binnendijk, which sailed from New York for Amsterdam Sept. 26, sank in flames in the English channel early today after an explosion.

The crew of 41 was rescued by a British contraband examination ship which answered rocket signals sent up by the 6,873 ton vessel as she went down near Weymouth, British contraband control port.

Calls It "Terrific Explosion."

Capt. W. Moree of Rotterdam said he was on the bridge when a "terrific explosion" put the engines and wireless out of commission. He said he was unable to determine immediately whether the ship was sunk by a mine or torpedo. Authorities said there were no British mines in that area.

[The Holland-Amerika Line announced in Rotterdam it had been informed by the Binnendijk's captain that his vessel struck a mine.]

"The ship began to sink very slowly," Capt. Moree said. "We fired rocket signals which were answered. Later an examination vessel came alongside and, making fast to our ship, took us all off—the 41 officers and crew. We had no passengers."

Feel Two Shocks.

Seaman Aart Winkelkoff said:

"We felt two shocks or bumps and then there was an explosion. We got into our lifeboats ready to cast off, but an English war vessel took us off. While we were being taken ashore we saw our ship go down in flames."

Two members of the crew suffered leg fractures. The sinking of the Binnendijk was the first reported since the 876 ton British freighter Glen Farg, which the British admiralty said Friday had been sunk by a submarine.

ITALY BIDS TWO BALKAN NATIONS TO ENTER PACTS

Offer to Hungary and Jugo-Slavia Heard.

BUDAPEST, Hungary, Oct. 8 (AP).—Italy was reported today to have offered new friendship pacts to Jugo-Slavia and Hungary, adding to the relief of tension which has dominated southeastern Europe since the war began.

Italian radio broadcasts received here said the negotiations, which many observers believed would include mutual assistance agreements, were under way. Reports of the negotiations were confirmed semi-officially in Belgrade.

[Associated Press dispatches from Rome made no mention of the negotiations.]

With Italian diplomacy so far directed at preserving neutrality in the conflict, the small neutral nations of southeastern Europe saw their chances of staying out of the war heightened by these reported negotiations.

Italy Spurred to Action.

With German occupied on her western front and with soviet Russia's aims in the Balkans still unrevealed, diplomats of this section of Europe welcomed prospective collaboration among Italy, Jugo-Slavia, and Hungary as a possible counteraction of the German-soviet bid for domination in the Balkans.

Since the small countries of this area dread war more than they relish the thought of getting revenge for some old or fancied wrong, diplomats believed Italy would win adherents on a promise to help maintain the peace and neutrality of the area.

An authoritative Jugo-Slav source said the current negotiations were "only the beginning of something much bigger than a mere treaty." Should Jugo-Slavia and Hungary draw closer to Italy, diplomats said Rumania and Bulgaria might well agree to follow suit.

Italy Woos Turkey.

Italy in recent weeks has taken steps to win the confidence of Turkey and Greece, withdrawing troops from the Greek frontier in Albania.

Cheering to Rumania was the assurance—published in Rumanian newspapers for the first time today—from Moscow that the soviet intended to make no demands upon Rumania in the negotiations at the Kremlin with the Turkish foreign minister, Sukru Saracoglu. Thus apparently Rumania was relieved of any immediate threat of a simultaneous invasion from Hungary and soviet Russia to regain the former Russian province of Bessarabia and the former Hungarian province of Transylvania.

ARMY'S NEW GUN 'BRAIN' WILL FIND TARGET AT SHOW

Defend City Against 'Air Attack' Tomorrow.

BY WAYNE THOMIS.

The army's secret new altitude finder and "mechanical brain" that automatically tells gun aimers where to point their cannon to shoot down swift aircraft will play prominent parts in the demonstration of antiaircraft gunnery that will be given tomorrow night on the 12th street beach in Grant park.

Both these new aiming devices will be used by a battery of the 202d coast artillery [antiaircraft], Illinois National Guard, that will attempt to shoot down a target towed by an airplane a mile out over the lake and two miles above the ground. About 200 rounds of live shrapnel shells will be fired at the sleeve target.

Effective Ground Defenses.

The demonstration that is to show the effectiveness of American ground defenses against aerial attacks is sponsored by THE TRIBUNE in conjunction with the National Guard, the Chicago park district, and the Lincoln Park Gun club. Participation of the guard units has been authorized by Gov. Horner.

The new rifles with their 10 foot barrels and special quick recoil mechanism are capable of firing 25 to 30 shells a minute from each gun. Col. Charles C. Dawes, commanding officer of the regiment, said Capt. Leroy Vavrinek will be in charge of the battery.

For the demonstration the altitude finder, which is a 12 foot metal tube, 8 inches in diameter and mounted on a tripod, will be set up near the guns. The so-called fire director —the "mechanical brain"—also will be placed nearby. This is a large metal box with a number of peep holes and sighting adjustment screws.

The altitude finder, through a sighting arrangement, shows its crew the exact height and distance of an airplane or target that is brought into focus on its lenses. With this information the crew of the mechanical brain also sights on the target.

Calculates Firing Data.

The fire direction instrument then constantly and automatically calculates the firing data for the guns. The speed of the target, the time for the shell fuse, the probable drift of the shell in the prevailing winds, and the required "lead" on the target are all determined and transmitted electrically to a set of pointers on the guns.

There two men "match pointers"—keep the gun pointers matching the indications of the fire direction instrument. This keeps the muzzles of the guns always moving, always aimed at the spot where the shells should be fired to hit the target. This aiming process is constant and has nothing to do with the firing.

While the aiming crew is concerned only with aiming the rest of the gun crews simply put their shells into the gun and fire as rapidly as possible.

Guns Deadly at Six Miles.

The guns have an effective range of six miles and can fire to a height of 8,500 yards—approximately five miles. The bursts are considered to be deadly if anywhere within fifty yards of a target or plane.

The battery's eight .30 caliber machine guns will also be set up on the beach. They will fire at another target towed by another plane at a lower level—approximately 1,500 feet. The towing planes will be 0-47 machines of the 108th observation squadron, Illinois National Guard, at Chicago airport.

The National Guard units are participating in the demonstration in the hope that young men of Chicago will become interested in joining National Guard units of the state that have been allotted 2,166 new enlisted men. Of this number 465 will be assigned to the antiaircraft regiment.

Skeet shooting by experts from the Lincoln Park Gun club will open the show.

Antiaircraft Exhibition Tomorrow

This observation plane from the 108th observation squadron is of the type that will be used to tow targets at which ground crews will fire tomorrow night in antiaircraft exhibition at the 12th street beach.

A three inch gun of the 202d coast artillery in action. Guns like this will be used in tomorrow night's antiaircraft exhibition at the 12th street beach. They will fire at a target to be towed by observation plane.

ACCEPT HITLER'S PROPOSAL, ITALY URGES EMPIRES

ROME, Oct. 8 (AP).—The Fascist press urged Great Britain and France today to accept Adolf Hitler's peace offer.

Virginio Gayda, authoritative Fascist journalist, writing in La Voce d' Italia, said Italy "once again calls the people to face realities and dangers in the hope they may draw back in time from a fateful precipitation."

"Peace which might be reached after a bloody war on the western front," Gayda continued, "could not be much different from that which Germany proposes today.

"At the end of the war, with millions dead and an incalculable destruction of riches, what would be recovered by the world would be only that which Hitler's speech already put forward as natural conditions of a true European peace," he wrote.

The newspaper Il Popolo di Roma complained that Hitler's proposals had not been given the reception it said they deserved in London and Paris.

FHA CHIEF QUITS IN N. Y.; BLASTS NATHAN STRAUS

New York, Oct. 8 (AP).—Accusing Federal Housing Administrator Nathan Straus of hamstringing low cost housing in the city, Chairman Alfred Rheinstein of the New York housing authority announced today he had resigned.

Rheinstein charged that cancelation of the $6,500,000 Bedford Stuyvesant project in Brooklyn was the result of an article he helped to prepare for a magazine. The article, he said, had piqued the federal administrator.

Straus declined to approve the project on the grounds that the land acquisition costs would exceed a limit of $1.50 per square foot. Previously, Rheinstein said, the project had received a signal to proceed. Rheinstein asserted that on a recent visit to Washington, D. C., Straus told him there was no place in housing for any one who criticized him. On the following day, Rheinstein said, the housing project was canceled.

TOBEY APPEALS FOR TWO BILLS ON NEUTRALITY

Restrict Shipping, Delay Arms Vote, He Asks.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 8 (AP).—Senator Charles W. Tobey [R., N. H.] made a radio appeal tonight in behalf of his motion which may be voted on early this week to send the administration arms embargo repeal bill back to committee. Tobey seeks to split the measure into two bills so as to permit quick enactment of restrictive clauses on shipping while leaving the arms embargo issue to be settled later.

Charles W. Tobey.

Tobey said this country was faced with great danger of being drawn into the European conflict so long as its ships were in war zones.

Contending that there was little possibility of speedy enactment of shipping restrictions unless they were divorced from the embargo question, Tobey said that whether or not his pending motion was adopted "may very well mean the difference between our being forced into the war or kept out of it."

Appeals to Constituents.

He appealed for his hearers to wire their senators demanding adoption of his motion.

Representative Jessie Sumner [R., Ill.] contended in a statement issued through the Republican national committee that a change in the neutrality law, "which would benefit one belligerent as against the other, after the start of hostilities, would be an unneutral act and would be so regarded under international law."

Senator Lewis B. Schwellenbach [D., Wash.] and Senator John H. Overton [D., La.] also discussed the neutrality issue tonight on the radio.

The Washington senator described the administration bill as a "code of restrictions upon our citizens so as to prevent any one of us from so conducting ourselves so as to endanger all of us."

Surprised at Norris and Borah.

Discussing a letter from a constituent expressing surprise that such men as Senators George W. Norris [Rad., Neb.] and William E. Borah [R., Idaho] should be on opposite sides of the arms embargo question, Schwellenbach said he replied:

"I don't blame you for being confused. I agree with everything you have said about both Senator Borah and Senator Norris. Does it not occur to you that what you have asked me is simply an illustration of what a fine thing it is to live under American democracy? . . . In many countries if Senator Borah and Senator Norris made the speeches which they did over the radio, one of them would end up in a concentration camp."

Senator Overton said that to repeal the embargo would be "to take sides officially by act of our government." He added that if the United States supplies arms to one side of the European war "we shall be called upon to do more and more and to take step after step on the road that leads us to war."

MRS. CLARK J. LAWRENCE.

Women in Chicago and adjoining suburbs prepared yesterday for the campaign to raise more than 3 million dollars for the Community fund. The campaign begins in two weeks. The women's division is led by Mrs. Clark J. Lawrence, 960 Sheridan road, Winnetka. Mrs. Lawrence said yesterday that a committee of 100 is being formed as one of the activities of the women's division. Its members will get contributions through personal solicitation and also will appeal for aid to various women's groups and organizations.

British Lift Passport Rule for Americans at Bermuda

Washington, D. C., Oct. 8 (AP).—Great Britain lifted today the requirement imposed at the outbreak of the war that American citizens have passports for visits to Bermuda and the Bahamas, British possessions. A British embassy announcement said the new order was effective until further notice.

fused to answer questions concerning production of these orders, it was learned that 160 of the Lockheed bombers were shipped to England before Sept. 2 and that approximately half of the total North American order had been shipped.

French Obtain 250 Planes.

At the start of the war France had received 125 of the 200 Curtiss pursuit planes, 75 of the Martin bombers, and 50 of the North American light bombers. None of the Douglas attack bombers has been shipped, although it is understood nearly 20 of these machines are ready for delivery to French representatives at the Douglas plant in Santa Monica, Cal. The first one was tested Aug. 18.

On the Lockheed company line in Burbank, Cal., and the Martin company airport in Baltimore the foreign planes are lined up, as many as 25 to 30 in a row. Photographs show that the French or the British insignias on the wings and fuselages of most of these ships have been covered with heavy paper.

Inquiries directed to the two motor and propeller manufacturers brought replies that information concerning the number of engines delivered thus far and the numbers still to be delivered to either of the belligerents is confidential.

It is known that more than 100 of the Pratt & Whitney and Cyclone motors are in crates awaiting shipment from New York quays. A stream of motors still is being shipped from the eastern engine plants to Los Angeles, where they will be installed in airplanes of foreign order.

[The dalai lama is the principal pope of Lamaism, religion of Tibet and Mongolia.]

Two days ago the boy was brought in his carrying chair by high Tibetan officials to a site near Lhassa. After visiting the Rigya monastery, the dalai lama was carried in a gilded sedan chair to a peacock tent where British, Nepalese, and Chinese representatives paid him homage.

CHILDREN'S Frequent COLDS

✓ For relieving discomforts of chest colds and night coughs, rub VapoRub on throat, chest, and back at bedtime. VapoRub's poultice-vapor action relieves congestion of upper air passages—eases soreness of chest and back muscles—helps the youngster relax into healing sleep.

✓ For coughing and irritated throat caused by colds, put VapoRub on the child's tongue to relieve the irritation. Then massage VapoRub on throat and chest.

✓ For "sniffles" and misery of head colds, melt VapoRub in a bowl of boiling water. Have the child breathe in the steaming vapors. This loosens phlegm, clears air passages, makes breathing easier. Also massage VapoRub on throat and chest. Millions of families use these three time-tested treatments.

his enemies it would be said that the United States had tipped the scales against him and Mr. Roosevelt would receive the credit for stopping the dictators. As the potentialities are viewed by Rooseveltians a grateful country could do no less than confer a third term upon its savior.

It is with these objectives and expectations that the administration leaders are seeking to expedite the repeal of the arms embargo. They are claiming 65 votes in the senate nailed down for the repealer and the noninterventionists, while disputing that number, are privately admitting that the administration has the majority. As a matter of fact, only some arresting circumstances of a totally unforeseen nature could now compass the defeat of the repealer.

Illinois Pair for Repeal.

The total in favor of the repealer has been increased by the votes of the two Illinois senators—Scott W. Lucas [D.], and James M. Slattery [D.]. Both have been stating for publication that they are not definitely committed with Lucas, explaining that he leans toward repeal, provided the cash and carry provisions prove stiff enough to suit him, and Slattery saying that he wants to hear all the arguments before deciding.

It appears, however, that each has given satisfactory assurances to the administration that he will vote for repeal. Both senators are expected to return to Washington tomorrow from Chicago, where they attended the Cardinal Mundelein funeral.

Senator Key Pittman [D., Nev.], chairman of the foreign relations committee, said tonight that he expects general debate of the repealer to be concluded this week and voting on amendments to begin next week. He predicted passage of the repealer by the senate next week. Senator William E. Borah [R., Idaho], leader of the noninterventionists, contented himself with opining that Mr. Pittman is too optimistic.

Dropping All Pretense.

Now that the passage of the repealer seems assured by a substantial majority [2 to 1, Pittman predicts], administration leaders are dropping the pretense that the legislation is being sought in the interest of true neutrality. They make no bones of admitting that the arms embargo is to be wiped out in order to help Britain and France and hurt Hitler.

Some of them put it as frankly as Senator Frederick Van Nuys [D., Ind.], who said he will vote for the repealer because he wants to smash Hitlerism. That this is the administration purpose in seeking the repeal is shown through the speeches of Senators Pittman, Tom Connally [D., Tex.], and George W. Norris [Rad., Neb.].

The President believes that the country is overwhelmingly with him on this issue. He is fortified in that belief by the Gallup polls showing a large majority in favor of aiding Britain and France but at the same time keeping the United States out of the war.

Whether Mr. Roosevelt can be relied upon to keep us out of war is a much debated question. Last summer he espoused the view that we would be drawn in eventually. He told the senate military affairs committee that America's first line of defense is in France.

In the eastern states sentiment is preponderantly for repeal, supposedly because of the numerous manufacturing interests that would benefit from British and French munitions orders. The Atlantic seaboard long has been pronouncedly pro-British. Then there is the added element of the Jews, largely centered in New York whose influence is directed toward strong measures against the Jew baiter Hitler.

Also strongly for repeal is the south which from tradition and from motives of interest in the cotton and tobacco trade with Britain is pro-British. Nearly all the southern senators are for repeal.

Sentiment against repeal is much stronger in the west but in that region also nearly all the Democratic senators who have been on the President's blacklist are now on the repeal bandwagon and fraternizing with Mr. Roosevelt.

The Question.

Is it neutral to maintain ambassadors at London and Paris and not to maintain one at Berlin?

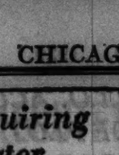
Where Answered.

At Michigan and Chicago avenues.

The Answers.

Verne McGinty, 1233 North Dearborn street, clerk—I don't think it's neutral. Recall of an ambassador, even though it was done by having the ambassador resign in this case, is the historical prelude to war. It doesn't fit with Roosevelt's words for peace.

Miss Marjorie Franklin, 6241 Winthrop avenue, stenographer—No, it is not showing neutrality. In the past such action was a sign of hostility, and the people expected war to follow. It is no more neutral than a number of other actions of the President.



Albert H. Friedel, 221 East Superior street, artist—Certainly not. It is another one of the dangerous steps taken by the President. Was it neutral to delay the Bremen so the British could capture her, while allowing British vessels to sail with guns on deck?

Miss Audrey Krueger, Detroit, Mich., office worker—I don't see how it can help the President's pose of neutrality. It is obnoxious that such things should be done without the sanction of the American people. Having no ambassador seems stupid.

Burt Heafner, 4530 Malden avenue, printer—Of course it's not neutral. It wasn't neutral to hold up the Bremen and let armed ships of the empires use our ports. If we're to have diplomatic relations with Germany, we should have an ambassador stationed there.

EXPECT BRITAIN TO INVITE FRESH HITLER PEACE BID

Chamberlain May Open Door to Parley.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Oct. 8.—Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain probably will give the reply of Great Britain and France to Adolf Hitler's reichstag speech on Wednesday, when he makes his weekly war survey in the house of commons, it was stated in diplomatic circles here tonight.

It is indicated the prime minister is unlikely to return a definite answer one way or the other to the Fuehrer's proposals. Most observers believe his reply will be cautiously restrained, leaving the door wide open for further diplomatic skirmishing while the armed forces stand by.

Chamberlain already has pledged that the peace plan will receive careful consideration by the British government and that consultations will be held with the governments of the dominions and the French republic before a final reply is decided upon.

Discussions Under Way.

Discussions with the dominions and France are under way, according to reports published here, and it is suggested in diplomatic quarters that the Polish views also may be sought. August Zaleski, foreign minister of the Polish government established in Paris, is expected here this week.

Editorials and articles in the London press insist Germany will have to withdraw from the territories forcibly occupied, provide some form of reparations, and give tangible assurance that its pledges can be trusted before its proposals can be accepted as a basis for discussion. It was declared, however, in usually well informed diplomatic quarters that it was not yet known whether Chamberlain would outline the conditions which the British consider necessary for any peace conference.

Arthur Greenwood, Labor deputy leader in the house of commons, whose views on war policy are reported at variance with his chief, Maj. Clement R. Attlee, today told a meeting of Labor party members of parliament that Hitler spoke as a victor on Friday and "offered no real peace terms."

Lloyd George Pushes for Peace.

David Lloyd George, leading peace advocate, who was assailed by Alfred Duff Cooper, former first lord of the admiralty, and others in the house of commons last week for cautioning the British government against hasty rejection of Hitler's proposals, is receiving hundreds of letters daily congratulating him on his stand.

In a statement tonight Lloyd George elaborated on his arguments in favor of an international peace conference. There is no question of repeating the tragedy of Munich, he said, since Britain would not be negotiating with Hitler alone.

"All the great powers must be invited and their honor will be involved in the guarantee of any terms arrived at," he added.

He voiced doubt of the Chamberlain government's three-year estimate of the war's duration, contending that in the last struggle, which lasted four years, Germany did not have the raw material and food resources of Russia at her disposal.

AMERICAN ENVOY HELD 3 WEEKS BY RUSSIANS IS SAFE IN BUCHAREST

BUCHAREST, Rumania, Oct. 8 (AP).—William Morton of Watsonville, Cal., who served as American vice consul in Warsaw, reached Bucharest today after being detained by the soviet army almost three weeks. Morton came from Kiev, where he was taken by soviet authorities after the Russian occupation of eastern Poland.

William Morton.

He said a guard was placed outside his door each night in Kiev, but he was well treated by the Russians who promised to send along his auto which he abandoned in Zaleszczyki, on the Rumanian-Polish frontier, when a Russian tank column took the town Sept. 17.

Morton was reticent about discussing conditions in Poland, but said he saw no widespread Polish-soviet fighting during the occupation. He reported that long lines of exhausted Polish prisoners were marching into Russia.

ROOSEVELT, HULL WILL CONFER ON PEACE PROPOSAL

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hyde Park, N. Y., Oct. 8.—President Roosevelt departed tonight for Washington, D. C., where he will give further study to a German proposal that he initiate moves for peace in Europe.

While the chief executive has maintained a cool silence on the suggestion, believed to have been inspired by Adolf Hitler, associates said he would not be averse to assuming the rôle of peacemaker, if he were assured that his efforts would meet with the approval of the allied empires as well as of Hitler.

The President will confer with Secretary of State Cordell Hull in the capital and explore the Berlin suggestion fully. In the conference they will give considerable thought to the question of reëstablishing Poland as the first premise of peace.

It is understood here that the President has maintained silence on the peace overture because he feels Germany will not yield conquered Poland.

BIBLIOPEGY (3)

By CALEB

WITH what materials does the creative bookbinder work? Printed pages, or manuscript sheets; silk and linen cord; brass embossing tools; glues and sizes; special leathers in a wide color variety; papers of many kinds; gold leaf and precious stones; quaint, but efficient, folders, sewing frames, laying presses, and ploughs, devised by the craftsman monks of the Middle Ages.

For fine binding remains, in the 20th century, the same basic handicraft that it was in the 14th and 15th centuries. The great English binders, Sangorski and Sutcliffe, for example, list thirty-six successive operations utilized in bibliopegy, with the stipulation that "No machine has yet been invented which is able to do any of these operations as well as it can be done by hand."

Among operations interesting to the layman are the "flexible sewing" of pages and sections in the mediaeval "sewing frame"—the velvety-smooth cutting of the top-edges in a mediaeval "plough"—the expert glueing, rounding and backing of the book—the lacing-on of board covers—and the "blind" or gold tooling of the leather with rarely intricate and gracious designs. At a glance one sees why machine methods could never duplicate these thousands of deft turns and touches of the long-trained artist-hand.

With a few American exceptions, the finest bookbinding is still done in Europe. Many celebrated names are represented in our own third-floor collection of fine bindings—such as Riviere, Sangorski & Sutcliffe, Alfred Matthews, De Santy, Hayday, Durvan, Lewis, Root & Son, Lortiz Freres, Taffin, Zaehnsdorf, and Chambolle-Duru.

In common, all bibliopegists admit the super-excellence of French Levant morocco as the ideal binding-leather. It comes from the Cape goat, and is dyed and treated in Paris. England, however, provides the best goldleaf—which has a gossamer thinness of 1/350,000th of an inch! Sometimes concealed under the gilding are beautifully painted fore-edges, done in water-color, and revealed by fanning the edge open in a backward movement from the cover. Double-painted fore-edges, concealing scenes that face each other, add a further surprise element to many handbound volumes; and jewels, occasionally used symbolically, were first introduced to replace corner bosses. . . . In a later comment, we shall discuss some masterpieces of the binder's art.

FRENCH REPULSE NAZI RAIDS NEAR MOSELLE RIVER

Germans Begin Feeling Out Foe's Strength.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Oct. 8.—After three days of cautious ground feeling, enemy forces on the western front burst into action today. Their activity may be the prelude to the opening of something like full scale activity all along the front from Luxemburg to the Palatinate, if hints given in recent French communiques can be trusted.

These indicate that the Germans, who up to now have let the French take the initiative, have begun feeling out the forces opposite them. For the last three days, in the sectors near Saarlouis, Saarbruecken and Zweibruecken [Deux Ponts], they have been sending reconnoitering squads and raiding patrols into territory controled by the French since the beginning of the war.

Nazis Make Surface Attacks.

On Sunday, according to the night communique, the French threw back German troops attempting a series of surprise attacks in the region east of the Moselle river, between the French town of Sierck and the German town of Saarlouis.

During the day an artillery battle also blazed up south and southeast of Saarlouis. The French artillery was employed mainly to drive back patrols launched at French outposts.

Some French observers believe the most likely starting point for a big German offensive would be the region north of Thionville since, if it succeeded, it would quickly bring the Germans into Lorraine.

Perilous, Say French.

The French general staff believes a force trying to break through at this point would risk being caught in a wedge formed by the curving of the Maginot line and the French concentrations facing Saarlouis.

Tonight the French general staff's communique stated: "Enemy surprise attacks were repulsed in the region east of the Moselle. Reciprocal artillery action to the south and southwest of Saarlouis."

[The German army's high command reported yesterday: "In the west there was artillery activity by both sides by day, and occasional instances of harassing fire by night."

Clearing weather led to renewed aerial activity.

GARDENER CLAIMS A RECORD WITH 3½ POUND RADISH

(Picture on back page.)

Mike Silvasi of 1519 Fred street, Whiting, Ind., claims the Chicagoland radish growing championship. A radish grown in his garden is 19 inches in circumference and weighs 3½ pounds. Each of his radishes averages between 1½ and 2 pounds. Salvasi planted his crop of winter radishes in June and they are ripe now. He doesn't go in for mass production, but he recommends his radishes as being crisp, solid, tasty, and without pithy centers.

Policeman Is Shot Twice; Shoots Assailant Twice

Policeman John Holloway, colored, of the Wabash avenue station, was shot twice early today in a gun fight with another man whom he shot twice. The latter was Roosevelt Hunter, 35, also colored, of 4905 South Park way. Hunter had been causing trouble in a tavern at 446 East 47th street, and the waitress, Mabel Morton, 4639 St. Lawrence avenue, asked Policeman Holloway to escort her home. Hunter stopped them at 47th street and Vincennes avenue, and shot Holloway in the left arm and leg. The policeman shot Hunter twice in the side. Holloway is 44 and lives at 6044 South Park way.

ARMY'S CHIEF ORDERS BAN ON WAR ISSUES IN SWISS ELECTION

BERNE, Switzerland, Oct. 8 (AP).—Generalissimo Henri Guisan, who commands a majority of Switzerland's voters mobilized in a citizens' army, issued an order today to keep the European war issue out of the impending political campaign.

Gen. Henri Guisan.

The election for the national council, which is similar to the United States house of representatives, is scheduled for Oct. 28-29, and will be decided almost entirely by 500,000 men under arms.

Guisan said soldiers may vote as they please but that each political party's campaign within the army will be limited to an official declaration of its program. Nothing may be included in the declaration which attacks the army or which is "incompatible with the correct relations between Switzerland and other states."

DEATH OF LAST 3 1871 VETS LEAVES EX-FIREMEN SAD

The anniversary of the great Chicago fire was observed yesterday by members of the Retired Firemen's association at their monthly meeting in the Great Northern hotel. The group, organized in 1908, has entertained annually the surviving members of the department who helped fight the blaze. Now there are none, the last three having died since last year's meeting. Guests this year included persons who had witnessed the conflagration.

There were seven eyewitness accounts of the fire, including one by William Sexton, former chief of the Joliet fire department. Three or four hundred persons attended the meeting, according to John Dooley, president of the association. Of more than 840 firemen on the pension rolls fewer than a hundred are not affiliated with the organization. Most of these live outside Chicago.

FRANCE CLOSES PRISON DOOR ON 37 RED LEADERS

Rounds Them Up in All-Day Search; Hunts Others.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Oct. 8.—The French government is determined to suppress the communist party. Tonight it was announced that 37 communist deputies had been arrested and that police and the army were hot on the trail of half a dozen other wanted leaders who have gone into hiding.

Beginning at 5 o'clock this morning in Paris and in the provinces, groups of police began visiting the homes of the communist deputies who subscribed to the open letter sent to Edouard Herriot, president of the chamber of deputies, calling for peace on the terms of Adolf Hitler and Josef Stalin. By noon, 26 of them had been picked up. The remainder of the 37 were in the Sante military prison in Paris or in local jails elsewhere in France before nightfall.

Submit Without Fight.

None of those arrested made any attempt to resist and most of them were visibly demoralized, probably in large part due to the flight of their leaders.

The chief of these was Maurice Thorez, secretary general of the party who deserted from the army early in the week; Jacques Duclos, formerly vice president of the chamber of deputies, and Flirman Bonte and Arthur Ramette, who originated the letter to Herriot. They went into hiding shortly after its appearance.

Another prominent Red, Andre Marty, leader of the mutiny of French sailors in the North sea during the world war, inspector general of the Loyalist international brigades in the Spanish civil war and probably the most hated of communist figures in France, disappeared shortly after the conclusion of the Nazi-soviet nonaggression pact.

Liable to Court Martial.

All these men are liable to court martial for "intelligence with the enemy," a treasonable charge carrying much heavier penalties than that previously lodged against them—the charge of trying to reconstitute a banned political group.

There now are no more communist officials in France nor any more communist municipalities. With the leaders arrested or in hiding, the few militants among the rank and file who still cling to the party line have been suppressed.

Sailor Saved After Rowing 2 Days; Water, Food Gone

Rockland, Me., Oct. 8 [Special].—After rowing for two days without food or water, Percy Davis, 58 years old, a member of the crew of the fishing schooner Eleanor, reached Mattinicus Rock today. He had rowed about 60 miles in a 15 foot dory. The cutters Chelan and Tahoe and a plane from the coast guard base at Salem, Mass., had been seeking him since yesterday morning when the schooner reached Portland and the captain, Everett Dexter, reported Davis lost in a fog.

C.I.O. ACCUSED OF PLOT TO CURB CAR PRODUCTION

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 8 (AP).—A production dispute between the United Automobile Workers of America [C. I. O. branch] and the Chrysler corporation marked the week-end as both were preparing for new contract negotiations. The corporation accused the union of carrying out a "production strike, a new form of sitdown," in order to force contract concessions. A company spokesman said some employés were "disciplined" after a "slowdown" in the main Dodge plant on Friday.

Today the union announced its members had voted its executive board the power to take "any necessary action" in the dispute. A letter was sent to the corporation asking "arbitration of grievances."

JAP ARMY WINS MODEL DISTRICT ON CANTON RIVER

Perils British Hongkong's Supply of Food.

HONGKONG, Oct. 8 (AP).—Japanese forces were reported today to have occupied Shekki, a city of the Pearl [Canton] river delta, after a two day intensive air attack.

It is the center of Kwangtung province's model Chungshan district, from which hail many overseas Chinese, particularly those now in Hawaii and the United States of America.

The reported seizure came after repeated Japanese sorties in the last six months had been beaten off by the Chungshan militia directed by District Magistrate Chang Hui-chang, one time Chinese air force chief and later minister to Cuba.

Land Under Warship Guns.

Dispatches said the Japanese landed under the guns of warships and their forces included several units of Chinese mercenaries from North China. The troops quickly overpowered the lightly armed Shekki militiamen, the reports said.

Military observers said that permanent Japanese occupation of the district might reduce the fresh food supply of Hongkong and the Portuguese colony of Macao, 25 miles south of Shekki. Foodstuffs and manufactured goods for the interior pass through Macao and the Chungshan peninsula.

Chiang Takes Control.

CHENGTU, China, Oct. 8 (AP).—Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek today assumed the chairmanship of Szechwan provincial administration.

His action was seen as the final step in the liquidation of a delicate domestic political situation arising from the central Chinese government's assumption of military and financial control in the province formerly under the virtual autonomous authority of regional war lords.

The Chinese capital was established in Chungking after the death of War Lord Liu Hsiang more than a year and a half ago, giving the central government undisputed sway over eastern Szechwan. Lesser generals, however, stubbornly resisted what they considered Chiang Kai-shek's encroachment on their private political preserves to the west.

Opposition to Chiang appointed provincial chairmen and others prompted the generalissimo to take over provincial leadership.

Chinese Claim Advance.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

CHUNGKING, Oct. 9 [Monday].—Chinese military today claimed to have regained more than 60 miles of territory in five days of fighting along the north Hunan province front, repulsing Japanese forces who three weeks ago launched the offensive against Changsha. Dispatches from Changsha reported Chinese troops were continuing to clean up the area south of the Hsinchiang river.

SOCIALISTS BORE REDS BY BORING FROM WITHOUT

Milwaukee, Wis., Oct. 8 [Special].—The Young Socialists, who like to be known as Yipsels, a word based on the consonant initials of their Young People's Socialist league, have been badgering the young communists by singing a song before the communist headquarters at 617 North 2d street.

The song is based on the Stalin-Hitler accord and part of it runs:

"Fascist Hitler was taboo.
"Now our line is, 'we love you.'
"Once we were dialectical,
"Now we're respectable,
"Our line's been changed again."

Dialectical is one of the words beloved by both groups of young radicals because to them it indicates their coldly logical treatment of governmental, social, and economic problems.

Ned Sparks, communist secretary for Wisconsin, and Fred Bassett Blair, perennial communist candidate for office, advised the junior communists to ignore the Socialists or retaliate in kind.

Stench Bomb Thrown Into Home of Casket Maker

A stench bomb late last night was thrown into the home of Willard O. Hedrick, 807 South boulevard, Evanston, a casket manufacturer, with place of business at 2332 Logan boulevard. The bomb was tossed through a front bay window. Mr. Hedrick laid the bombing to labor trouble and said he had been expecting such an attack.

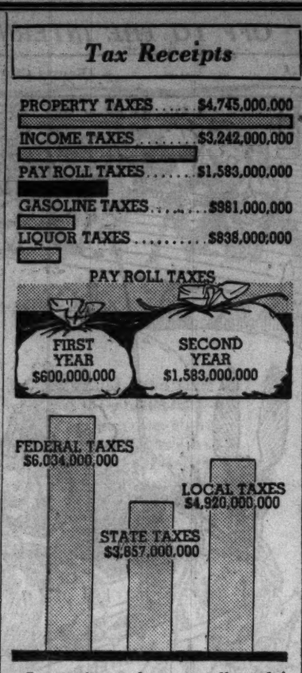
Tax Receipts



Comparison of taxes collected in America during 1938. Pay roll taxes climbed to third place. Their total, as compared to the previous year, is shown.

PAY ROLL TAXES ALREADY THIRD LARGEST BURDEN

Account for 10 Pct. of Load in Two Years.

The pay roll tax climbed to third place among all taxes in its second year, according to an analysis of 1938 tax receipts of federal, state, and local governments released yesterday by the Federation of Tax administrators.

Only the property tax and the income tax brought in more governmental revenue. In its first year, 1937, the pay roll tax amounted to about $600,000,000, or 5 per cent of the total. Last year it rose to $1,483,000,000, or 10 per cent of the American tax yield.

Property Taxes Show Drop.

The $14,811,000,000 of American taxes raised during the year came from ten major sources. Property taxes accounted for $4,745,000,000, or 32 per cent of the total. This was 4 per cent less than in 1937 and nine per cent under 1932.

Income tax collections, in second place, totaled $3,242,000,000, or 22 per cent of the total tax yield.

The various general and special sales and occupational taxes together yielded $3,842,000,000, or 26 per cent of all taxes. These included general sales, liquor, tobacco, gasoline, and other special sales taxes; federal stamp taxes and manufacturers' excise taxes, gross receipts taxes, and licenses.

Pay 981 Millions Gas Tax.

In this widespread group the largest single revenue producer was the gasoline tax, for which the people paid $981,000,000 in 1938. Liquor tax revenue was not far behind, with $838,000,000.

Of the $14,811,600,000 total, the federal government collected $6,034,000,000, or 40.8 per cent; state governments $3,857,000,000 or 26 per cent, and local governments $4,920,000,000 or 33 per cent.

GANG EXECUTES HOODLUM; SLOT MACHINE IN CAR

Shotgun Blasts Kill Victim as Quarrel Ends.

Amerigo Bertolini, 42 years old, an old time west side hoodlum, was shot to death in gangland style in front of 45 South Albany avenue late last night. Two blasts from a shotgun killed him as he was about to step into his new car parked at the curb. The slayers—four or five men—escaped in two automobiles.

A slot machine was found in the trunk of Bertolini's automobile, indicating, police said, a slot machine racket of some kind motivated his murder. Lieut. Walter McGloon of the Warren avenue station said that Bertolini either had been stealing slot machines or had been tied up with the slot machine syndicate.

No Money Found on Him.

Not a cent nor an article of jewelry was found on the murder victim. It was possible, police said, his killers first robbed him, hoping to find a big sum of money. Bertolini, it is known, was with the men in an alley at the scene just before he was shot down.

The victim was identified by his brother-in-law, Robert Lindstrand, 3147 Monroe street, who said Bertolini's last known address was 2156 Washington boulevard.

Long Police Record.

Bertolini had a police record dating to 1918. It shows numerous arrests, but only two convictions, one in 1919 when he was sentenced to the Bridewell, and another in 1931 when he was sentenced to the federal prison at Leavenworth. He was indicted many times in Chicago and elsewhere, but always escaped conviction.

During prohibition, police said, he ran a speakeasy, and later played the slot machine racket. Once he was suspected of being a government spy. He used several aliases. As J. Woods, he obtained driver's license and other credentials.

SEIZE ST. CHARLES GRAD AS ROBBER; HIS PAL IS SHOT

Lawrence Davenport, 18 years old, a parolee from the St. Charles School for Boys, who was captured early yesterday after his accomplice in a burglary had been shot and seriously wounded by police, was taken to the showup at the detective bureau yesterday afternoon. The wounded burglar, Albert Dion, 32, 709 South Leavitt street, who was paroled from Stateville penitentiary at Joliet on Dec. 15, 1933, after serving six years for robbery, is in the Bridewell hospital.

Davenport, who lives at 1456 Jackson boulevard, was paroled in April, 1938, from St. Charles, where he had been sent for larceny. Police said that previously he had been arrested for setting fire to a school. Yesterday a watchman heard Davenport and Dion prowling in the office of the Holliston Mills, bookbinders, at 812 Van Buren street.

Park Policeman Max Durachta caught Dion climbing out of a broken window and shot him above the heart when Dion threatened him with a brick.

ONE KILLED, FOUR INJURED AS CARS CRASH AND UPSET

Fred Lindberg, 47 years old, 8000 South Marshfield avenue, died in Little Company of Mary hospital yesterday after an automobile collision at 79th street and Pulaski road in which four others were injured. Detective Leroy Allen of Chicago Lawn station said the cars collided at high speed and overturned in a ditch.

Lindberg was driving west in 79th street. The other driver, John Livingstone, 38, of 9734 South 51st avenue, Oak Lawn, was going north in Pulaski road. Livingstone incurred a possible skull fracture. His companion, Mrs. Margaret Laub, 48, of 9000 Parnell avenue, escaped with minor injuries. Riding with Lindberg were his wife, Bertie, 39, who incurred fractures of two ribs and a possible skull fracture, and Betty Vogel, 9, of 1415 School street, who also was believed to have suffered a skull fracture.

James Regan, 56 years old, for 25 years an employé at the Oak Forest infirmary, was killed late last night by a hit and run car at Cicero avenue and 161st street, near the institution.

In the 24 hours ending yesterday at 3 p. m. 642 persons had been killed by automobiles in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these 493 were killed in Chicago, where 16,772 were injured in the same period.

Wedding Procession Crash of Deputy's Car Hurts Two

Two women were slightly injured last night when their car was struck by the leading car of a wedding procession driven by Deputy Sheriff Anton Cichowicz. The deputy was sounding his siren at the time. The accident occurred at Austin and Belmont avenues. Those hurt are Mrs. Mary Davicdczik, 44, of 1331 North Oakley boulevard, and Mrs. Stella Stolarana, 43, of 2137 North Springfield avenue.

Five Overcome by Gas in 75th Street Tunnel

Five men were overcome by gas early today in the water tunnel under construction at 75th street and the lake. They were Paul Tangora, 41 years old, 918 South Carpenter street; Gordon Strong, 44, of 227 East 59th street; William Huff, 50, of 5706 Wabash avenue; James Huff, 25, his son, of 5144½ South Park avenue, and George Byrge, 28, of 3114 Morgan street. The Huffs and Strong are colored. They were revived at the Jackson Park hospital.

GEORGE WASHINGTON SAID:

"Excessive partiality for one foreign nation and excessive dislike for another cause those whom they actuate to see danger only on one side, and serve to veil and even second the arts of influence on the other. Real patriots who may resist the intrigues of the favorite are liable to become suspected and odious, while its tools and dupes usurp the applause and confidence of the people to surrender their interests."—From the Farewell Address.

LIVING COSTS AND WAR.

The government has just reported that in the three months ended June 15 the cost of living of wage earners' families in the United States declined 3/10 of 1 per cent. That slight recession in what it costs to live continued a gentle decline which began late in 1937. In two years the aggregate drop has amounted to 4 per cent.

Thus the cost of living has changed very little since the peak of the last recovery movement. But the employed workman has been well off during this period, because living costs rose only 13 per cent from the low point of the depression to the highest point in the upturn. As of the most recent date for which there are figures consumers' goods were only 10 per cent higher than during the bank moratorium.

Since the date covered by the government's latest report there have been advances in many raw materials, but few of the articles in the working man's budget have as yet been affected materially. When the report for Sept. 15 becomes available in another three months, it seems unlikely that an increase of more than 1 or 2 per cent will be reported.

What war will do to the cost of living is a matter of conjecture. But if the conduct of prices in the last war is a guide, there will be relatively little change in consumers' prices for some time. War business was pouring into the country by the end of 1915, by which time hostilities had been in progress nearly a year and a half. But living costs had risen by less than 5 per cent from the prewar level. And even by the end of 1916, on the eve of the entrance into the war by the United States, family expenses were only 15 per cent higher than in 1913. Prices of consumers' goods did not take wings until the United States became a belligerent. The cost of living rose 18.7 per cent in 1917 and 20.7 per cent in 1918. There was a further advance after peace was restored of 26.5 per cent, the peak being attained a year and a half after the armistice.

If experience is a guide, there will be no material rise in living costs in the immediate future. The war might be expected to continue several years before the higher prices of consumers' goods became burdensome. But if the United States gets into the war, precedent suggests a wild rise in living costs. To keep the cost of living down, stay out of war!

THE RIGHT TO BARGAIN.

Some years ago the American Federation of Labor attempted to settle a dispute between the teamsters' union and the brewery workers' union by deciding that brewery teamsters were teamsters rather than brewers. The brewery workers' union thereupon sued to prevent the award from being carried out and has just won its case in the federal District court in Washington, D. C. Judge Goldsborough held that the A. F. of L. has no right to transfer men from one union to another without their consent.

At first glance it might appear that the decision has closed a hopeful avenue to the settlement of jurisdictional disputes, but that conclusion is not waranted by the facts. There are two kinds of jurisdictional quarrels. One of them is represented by this case, in which two unions are competing for the right to speak for a given body of workmen already organized. Such disputes can be adjusted readily by a referendum of the men concerned. The other kind of dispute finds two unions, representing two different sets of workmen, each claiming the right to perform a certain type of work. An example of this second sort of rivalry was provided some years ago when plumbers and tile setters both claimed the right to install soap dishes in bathrooms. This second type of jurisdictional quarrel has been particularly troublesome, both because the equities have generally been obscure and because the employer was left a helpless victim. Nothing he could do would remedy matters, but as long as the quarrel persisted his building could not be completed. The court has not denied the right of the A. F. of L. to adjust disputes of this sort.

All the court has said is that when two unions are seeking control of a given group of dues paying members the choice of the members must determine the outcome. We do not see how any other decision could have been reached under our system of law and government. In the corporative or Fascist state the trade unions exist by command of the state, and accordingly the bargaining is done for the members by men nominated by the state. In this country unions exist, in theory at least, through the free association of their members. As principals, the union men name their own agent. To deny them this right would be to destroy their liberty to bargain for their services as free men.

The recognition of these principles will probably distress some of the New Dealers and particularly the zealots on the labor board. In the course of determining what is a proper unit for collective bargaining the board has done some strange gerrymandering. Unions which were chosen by overwhelming vote to represent the employés in a given plant or a given locality were denied the right to act for their members. On the west coast, for example, the dock workers in a number of ports who were members of one union were told that they would have to be represented by another union because it had a majority of all the dock workers on the Pacific coast. If Judge Goldsborough's decision is good law, as we believe it is, the labor board may have to modify its findings in such cases.

AMERICAN WATERS.

The 300 mile neutrality zone that Sumner Welles sold to the American republics at Panama City has an objective deeply desired by all Americans—insulation of the western hemisphere against the European war. Whether the plan will work is another question. Mr. Chamberlain's guarantee to Poland didn't work because he lacked or would not risk the military force to back it up. Perhaps we may be making the same kind of mistake.

Rear Admiral Emory S. Land, the President's own appointee to the maritime commission, says the proposal won't work. What do we intend to do, he asks, if some one pokes his nose over the neutrality deadline? Lord Lothian, the British ambassador, made a hurried call on Secretary Hull, presumably to ask the same question.

Mr. Hull is already backing away from the plan as gracefully as he can without tripping over his undersecretary, Mr. Welles. Our present attempt to enforce the deadline will be confined to a request to belligerents to observe it. If they refuse we will consult the other American republics on what to do next.

The London Times, which often speaks for the British foreign office, has already termed the plan unreasonable and a warlike gesture.

"Any action taken by an American navy to enforce prohibitions contained in the declaration," says the Times, "would have no sanction in international law and such action would amount to an act of war."

Great Britain and France have both island and mainland possessions within the neutrality zone. What do Mr. Welles and his fellow conferees propose to do if those nations exercise their hitherto unquestioned right to send their own warships to their own possessions? To interfere with them would be an act of war.

If President Roosevelt has any real desire to enforce neutrality within the zone his necessary first step will be to eliminate the belligerent possessions from it by demanding that Britain and France surrender their island possessions to the United States in part payment of their war debt. But his state department raises eyebrows in gentlemanly horror at the very suggestion of such a request to our debtors.

The London Times also has raised the question of what the American republics would do about German submarines or warships that might be pursued into the neutral zone by the British navy. Are they to be allowed sanctuary there, later to resume their commerce raids, asks the Times. If the British are to be forbidden to pursue enemy ships it follows that the American navy would be obligated to capture and intern them. That would constitute an act of war against Germany. The United States navy could expect little aid in policing the neutrality zone in view of the relative weakness of the South American navies.

If there are civilians in the state department so naive as to think that we can, or would, send a fleet to South America, the navy will quickly disabuse them of the idea. If we had the force for such an action, which we have not, it would require bases. However much the South American republics may esteem Uncle Sam as a big brother, they are not going to grant him naval bases on their coasts.

It is possible that the United States fleet, brought into the Caribbean, could prevent a European expeditionary force from attacking the South Atlantic coast. This it would do without entering the South Atlantic by threatening to cut the expedition's line of communications with its home ports. But such action by threat is not to be compared with the task of going into South American waters to police against raiders which have no communications to maintain.

The neutrality zone proposal contains mischievous possibilities that might involve us in the very war we seek to avoid. The plan should be replaced by one that is workable because it is within the limits of our power to enforce it.

The Gulf of Mexico should without delay be declared a Pan-American lake, barred for all time to warships of any non-American belligerent. Such action would require the agreement of only three nations, the United States, Mexico, and Cuba, whose territory incloses the gulf, but other American republics might desire to indorse it.

The second step should be to advance the neutrality cordon to the Caribbean, which our navy can also guard. In doing this we should demand the cession of the British and French islands.

Editorial of the Day

BUSINESS WAR VIEW.

[Indianapolis News.]

The warning against the effect on American business of war inflation, which the economic policy committee of the American Bankers' association uttered last week, is especially significant in view of the opposition to war expressed by the National Association of Manufacturers and the United States Chamber of Commerce.

These three great organizations, speaking for American finance, manufacturing, and general business, have urged the American people to stay out of the war. In fact, they have practically condemned all war. While they know that war anywhere booms business, they fear the inevitable collapse of the boom and the economic penalties imposed by the loss of man power and property.

This chorus of warning from the group which presumably would make a dollar profit from war should be carefully considered by every citizen. In effect, the business leadership of the country has told the politicians and the people that war profits are a delusion and war should be considered as the enemy of sound prosperity. The business leaders are right. They know from experience that war profits are lost in the payment of postwar taxes.

The great and dominant reason against war is its terrible price in death and suffering. The business reason can never be more than secondary. But when the business reason so completely supports the humane reason, the case for staying out of an avoidable war is complete.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may. Reg. U.S. Pat. Office

A HISTORICAL MYSTERY.

When the Library of the City of Chicago, of which we dreamed last Tuesday, is founded and fully equipped, we will stroll over there and satisfy our curiosity on the following points:

Did George Francis Train, a lecturer of leftist tendencies, prophesy doom for Chicago an hour or two before the great fire of 1871 started?

Did the Chicago Times, in its first issue after the fire, publish a long article purporting to be the confession of a communist who had participated in incendiary activities that caused the conflagration?

We have come across a yarn to this effect, treated as fact, in The Scoop, a weekly magazine published by the Press Club of Chicago, issue of Oct. 11, 1913. For many years we have been a true believer in Mrs. O'Leary's cow, and all the while this magnificent piece of news or gigantic hoax has been lurking in an old trunk in the attic.

Lecturer Train's prophetic words, spoken in Farwell hall on Madison street, are alleged to have been:

"This is the last public address that will be delivered within these walls. A terrible calamity is impending over the city of Chicago. More I cannot say. More I dare not utter."

The anonymous confession, beginning "I am a member of the Société Internationale," states that Train was also a member. The group is supposed to have taken a change of venue to Chicago after the Paris Commune and to have planted "petroleum mines" all over town.

We will have to get ourself a library to solve such historical mysteries. In the meantime, Carl B. Roden writes:

"We are greatly impressed by your suggestion, and hope it will be thoroughly considered and lead to something definite. . . . This should not be a new library with separate trustees, but ought to be established under the authority of the Public Library, with a reasonable endowment and suitable quarters."

NORTH WOODS IN AUTUMN.

The talking of the leaves outside our window
Weaves for me a story often told,
And wakens in my memory a picture
Of evergreens against the autumn gold.
The red of maple and of sumac blushing,
Outlined by the balsam and the pine;
And birch trunks now unclothed white apparitions;
O, how I long for those old haunts of mine!
The birds, and many humans too, when fall comes
Travel eagerly to southern scenes;
But I, if only circumstance allowed it,
Would spend long hours beneath the evergreens.

Chicago's Greatest Crowds.

On Oct. 9, 1893 [glorious autumn weather], about 750,000 people celebrated Chicago day at the World's Fair, going to Jackson park by train, boat, cable car, the new elevated, horse and buggy, and foot power. This attendance probably has never been equaled by any other exposition.

The next largest crowd in the Chicago region was in 1926 at Mundelein, where ceremonies in connection with the Eucharistic congress were held at St. Mary of the Lake. It was estimated at over 700,000.

The Legend of Queen Anne's Lace.

In the days of Queen Anne in England the nuns in a convent wished to make something to give her when she visited them. They went to work making their most beautiful laces—all but the youngest, who said she knew of no pattern lovely enough to make for the queen. One day in the garden she picked a weed and that night she, too, began to make lace. The other nuns laughed at her, for she was using the weed as a pattern. When the queen visited the convent she praised them all for their handiwork, but said the youngest nun had made the most beautiful lace. Since that day the weed has been known as "Queen Anne's Lace."

A Failing of Poets and Presidents.

I can't tell Walter T. Wheeler [Sept. 28] why President Roosevelt pronounces AGAIN so that it rhymes with RAIN, but see nothing unconstitutional about it. Mr. Wheeler may not have noticed that the word, with its two pronunciations, is more useful to poets than to Presidents. It serves the poet as the combination wrench serves the mechanic, or as the reversible topcoat serves the man who can't afford a raincoat. Even the terse and meticulous A. E. Housman used it both ways, rhyming AGAIN with VAIN in one lyric, and writing on another page:

"Now, of my threescore years and TEN,
Twenty will not come AGAIN."

Perhaps Mr. Wheeler is worried because the President finds it phonetically impossible to write:

"I now declare before all MEN,
I, Franklin, will not run AGAIN."

NEW BLOOD FOR OLD.

MANY of the terms used in describing physical ills are of common knowledge. Anemia, for example, is understood to apply ordinarily to conditions wherein the quantity or the quality of the blood is disturbed. There may be too little hemoglobin [red coloring matter, a part of which is iron], or too few red cells.

Why are the red cells important? Because they are the vehicles floating in the circulation that carry oxygen to every remote area. They are furnished generously with hemoglobin, which is the actual transporting agent. Whenever this material drops in amount, even though the total of cells is adequate—the patient is likely to become ill because the agent which enables us to work [oxygen] is not present.

How much blood does the adult body contain? If one is in good health, the volume is approximately 75 ounces. A portion of this is hemoglobin—about 26 ounces. In number the cells [red] exceed 25 trillion. Now, each of these circular discs lives only about a month and when it dies its constituents are set free. Iron is liberated and much of this goes to the new forms. Each day nearly a trillion are destroyed, along with about one ounce of hemoglobin, which means that an equal proportion must be produced by the bone marrow and find their way to the blood vessels. We can scarcely realize that nearly a billion of these miniature freight cars must be born every minute of every day.

While our intake of food, minerals, and water must be balanced, diet alone will not suffice. Another compound must be on hand, otherwise the corpuscles will not ripen and be able to carry on their work. This peculiar ingredient is manufactured by the lining of the stomach and is found also in the liver. This explains why we feed liver in certain blood diseases. Yeast furnishes a fair share also.

Another essential is hydrochloric acid, which is one of the components of the gastric juice. Should the stomach glands fail to make it, the ripening or maturing factor will not be forthcoming. This acid may be imbibed from outside sources and many a pale patient will regain his natural complexion under its beneficent influence. It should not be used, however, if the stomach secretes an average quota.

During the developing process, iron is taken up by every one of these tiny particles, hence it must be available. In order to supply the hemoglobin needed every day, one hundred milligrams of the metal will be demanded. Now, the total of this substance in the system is approximately four grams and three-fourths of it is found in the blood, which indicates that the diet must be rich in this material. In other words, we must eat iron-containing foods to maintain the requisite ratio. Should hemorrhage occur, and blood be lost, it will have to be administered to build the fluid back to normal.

Since these vital corpuscles are produced within the bone marrow, the output of the factories may be reduced by disease, infection, or poisoning. To some this may appear confusing. Several points, however, should be kept in mind:

First, the circulating fluid must be normal if life is to be preserved.

Second, it must be made up of enough cells, each possessing its allotment of red coloring matter.

Third, the bone marrow must be functioning at par and the gastric glands be able to contribute the ripening substance.

Fourth, iron will be required if blood its lost.

Fifth, good food—some of which contains iron—must be at hand.

Fortunately, we can combat anemia successfully with the gastric mucosa and liver from animals, and iron and hydrochloric acid may be forthcoming from the chemical laboratory.

DRINK MILK TO GAIN.

H. B. S. writes: May I tell my plan for putting on weight, which has been successful whenever tried. Drink a quart of milk at 10 a. m. and 3 p. m. The gain is usually two or three pounds a week. Drinking it with the meals is not nearly so successful.

REPLY.

An excellent plan—one that we have advocated for a long time. Some patients find it difficult to take so large a quantity. A pint of grade A milk, fortified slightly with cream, and taken daily between meals is the usual prescription. Three pounds per week is fast work.

"WHISKY ITCH."

W. G. writes: I have been a heavy drinker for years. I quit about two weeks ago and have been tortured since then with an itch all over my body. I cannot sleep nights. Some call it the "whisky itch." Can anything be done?

REPLY.

The itch will disappear gradually as the craving for liquor becomes less. In the meantime, have your physician prescribe some sedative to help control the sensation. If you are not a diebetic, a slightly larger amount of sugar or corn sirup in the diet will be helpful.

FROM ACROSS THE SEA

BY L. LE GAY BRERETON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

CHUNGKING, China.—The American government is reported to have expressed its readiness to take up cudgels against one of China's most powerful and dreaded enemies—malaria.

If the United States does decide to help China in reply to the appeal made last month by Dr. H. H. Kung, it will face a problem even greater than that which faced the doctors who made possible the building of the Panama canal.

Dr. Kung appealed for trained experts and supplies to be despatched to aid in the fight against malaria in Yunnan—once an unimportant and backward province of southwest China, today one of China's most valuable areas, forming a link with the outside world through the British territory of Burma and supplying the country with many of its agricultural, mineral and manufactured needs.

Dr. M. C. Balfour, resident representative of the Rockefeller Foundation, made a study of conditions in Yunnan and expressed hope that his organization would take up a study of the disease there. It is on private institutions such as this as much as on the American government that the Chinese government is depending for aid.

The exact number who die from malaria in Yunnan each year has never been accurately estimated, but various districts have drawn up statistics and in some place the mortality rate reaches 85 per cent. At Szemao, near the Indo-China border, the population has dropped from 100,000 to 20,000 in fourteen years. With 80 per cent of the population killed by malaria, what was once a prosperous country district is a waste of uncultivated land. It is estimated that 90 per cent of the city's houses are deserted.

When malaria strikes, according to the Chinese health administration, the life of the area affected simply ceases, death occurs within a few hours, schools are closed and business is automatically at a standstill.

The disease is surrounded by superstitious beliefs. Chinese at Wufu believe it is caused by eels, in Yuankiang it is believed the result of contact with toads and butterflies. In other districts the disease is called by the symptoms it produces and is often mistakenly called cholera. In other districts it is believed to originate from inhaling the fumes from decomposing matter, either vegetable or animal.

The history of Yunnan is dominated by the disease as far back as 1303. It is recorded that entire military campaigns were brought to a standstill since as many as 80 per cent of the men were stricken and died of malaria. According to one old history of Yuankiang the disease raged for thirty years in the city during the reign of the Manchus and but a handfull of the population remained.

More recently it forced the Chinese-British commission for the demarcation of the Yunnan-Burma border to desist from its work.

On an average, according to health administration research, more than 27 per cent of the population of Yunnan is infected with malaria; just under 50 per cent has enlarged spleens.

During the building of the Burma highway thousands of lives were lost through malaria. The continued operation of transport along the road, its maintenance and enlarging, and the building of the parallel railway are costing the Chinese people dearly in lives. The work must go on because Yunnan, as the hub of China's transport network, is all important in China's resistance to further Japanese advances.

The Chinese government has not been idle. Considerable sums have been expended and are earmarked for combating the disease. Along the main Burma highway health stations and anti-malaria units have been established.

But China is short of doctors equally for her home front as for her war front, and even the assistance of the league of nations' anti-epidemic commission, which took the form of a million and a half quinine tablets, and the British Boxer Indemnity Fund's assistance has not enabled her to more than begin the huge task of breaking the stranglehold of malaria in Yunnan.

FORECLOSURE.

Chicago, Oct. 5 [Legal Friend of the People].—1. Is it legal for attorneys for plaintiff in a foreclosure proceeding to present an unitemized bill for abstract services and add same to foreclosure expense?

They had the status of the property investigated before filing suit and [2] perhaps also my other properties by the abstract company [3] so as to learn my financial standing. Inquiry of the abstract company shows they charged in advance for work to be done after the sale and probably also for guaranteeing the title when deed is finally passed.

4. Am I, the defendant, liable for such expense before foreclosure and after sale?

5. My attorney failed to be interested in them and the bill was approved as a foreclosure expense.

6. If it really contains illegal items what can be done now?

7. Can fraud be charged against plaintiff's attorneys?

8. The abstract bill is for $120. The usual price I have been charged for continuing an abstract has been $50.

H. P. Y.

1. It seems probable that your trust deed expressly authorizes them to charge you for the expenses of bringing the abstract down to date as a preliminary to foreclosure, if that is what you mean to ask.

2. We doubt this.

3. This is a regular procedure in order to place the complainant in a position to join proper parties as defendants in the proceedings.

4. In general, your liability depends on the wording of the trust deed. It is not clear why you should be charged with abstract expenses after the filing of the suit.

5. If you are represented by an attorney he is in a better position to advise you than we are.

6. We cannot advise without knowing the facts.

7. See preceding answers.

8. You can ask the abstract company to explain or itemize.

SHUTTING OFF FREE SPEECH.

Woodstock, Ill., Oct. 5.—What sort of gesture is this fight against dictatorships and the protection of "democracies" abroad while our own at home is being destroyed? The code committee of the National Association of Broadcasters has forbidden the sale of radio time to spokesmen on controversial public issues.

Isn't that prohibition a violation of our constitutional right of free speech? What is the essence of free speech but the free expression of one's honest opinions which necessarily will be controversial since, human nature being what it is, there will always be others to disagree with those opinions.

It is apparent that the code committee of the National Association of Broadcasters bent backward in their efforts to accommodate the Roosevelt administration in silencing its critics.

JOSEPH F. NELLES.

IT'S A SLUM CLEARANCE PROJECT.

Chicago, Oct. 4.—Your recent editorial describing the Congress street proposal as a slum clearance project and recommending its consummation by means of special assessments seems to be the first logical statement in this much publicized but indefensible means of spending gasoline tax revenues.

Application of the special assessment law is the only equitable method of financing public works where the benefit is primarily local. At the same time the use of the principle of special assessments prevents the enrichment of professional lobbyists from the public purse.

This organization, which has consistently urged the application of special assessments as a policy of the city government, wishes to commend your stand on this subject. AUGUST KNICKELS.

President, Amalgamated Improvement Associations.

HE "PLACES THE BLAME."

Cicero, Ill., Oct. 3.—THE TRIBUNE is still harping on the failure of the daylight saving ordinance. An article by Hal Foust today says that an estimated six additional trafic deaths will occur during the month of October because of the change of time.

Responsibility for the failure of the measure rests squarely upon the promoters of the plan, principally THE TRIBUNE and Mayor Kelly. Had your campaign for the ordinance been directed to continue daylight saving on from the last Sunday in September there would have been little opposition and the estimated six lives would have been saved, but you tried to choke it down the throats of the people almost in the middle of winter and they just wouldn't stand for it.

WOULD STAY NEUTRAL.

Woodstock, Ill., Oct. 5.—Let us Americans remain neutral and Christianlike and make no more war debts, useless slaughter, and crippling of our man power, and last but not least let us stop making widows and orphans. One trip to Hines hospital and our state asylum will show the horrors of war after 20 years.

SHIRLEY G. REESE.

WOULD PRESENT THE BILLS.

Chicago, Oct. 5.—The surest way to keep this country out of the war in Europe would be for the American congress to ask the European nations to settle their debts for the last war and start with a clean book.

BARRACKS?

Chicago, Oct. 4.—If you still think we are going to remain neutral try and order over 2,000 feet of lumber and you'll soon find out they're reserving some to build barracks.

BURDEN OF RECEIVERSHIPS.

Chicago, Oct. 3.—I wish to express my appreciation of your recent article, "128 Millions Held in Closed Illinois Banks." From personal experience, I am sure this also expresses the sentiments of many other harassed and tax ridden citizens.

This long drawn out receivership procedure, particularly as pertains to the many properties tied up in this pay roller web, has been a constant source of disappointment and dismay to thinking citizens.

In many cases past due taxes on properties held under the state auditor's politically controled receivership machine are in excess of the value of the properties themselves today.

It would be of great interest and lasting benefit to the public if the World's Greatest Newspaper would champion their rights to the extent of ascertaining the total amount of taxes past due on the properties held in this receivership—which if paid would go a long way toward relieving the burden of the small home owners who are making every effort to escape their tax burdens by moving elsewhere.

IF THE PEOPLE HAD A VOTE.

Chicago, Oct. 3.—With due respect for my British ancestors, I should like to say to that writer who thinks we should be ashamed not to go with Canada into this European war: Would it not be well for one country to remain whole and sane with a few dollars saved to help after the fight is over?

Besides many Canadians do not agree with their government that they should go into the war. If the people of any country were given the chance to vote there would be no wars.

FRANCES WILLARD'S SPIRIT.

Chicago, Oct. 4.—Many thanks to the Line for its timely recognition of the memory of Frances Willard. Her spirit still lives in the work of the White Ribboners of today. The term "pious" has rather an unfortunate connotation except as it measures sacrifice and service.

Proud of their titles of "fanatics" and "cranks," these women carry on, taking for their slogan the homely old adage, "dogged does it."

ANTWERP—King Albert fled Antwerp today as German troops continued their terrific bombardment and besieged the city with 200,000 men. Incendiary bombs thrown by the Germans set fire to many sections.

LONDON—A French war report gave the allies hope of an early victory over Germany. The report said that German troops, although heavily reinforced, had made no progress in Belgium near Lille and that they were thrown back at several points.

PARIS—A German aeroplane attempted to bomb a train of reservists at the St. Denis railroad station, but missed its mark. Some property was damaged but no lives were lost.

PETROGRAD—The Russian general headquarters announced that all German attacks on the eastern front had been repulsed with great losses. The Russians reported the capture of the Village of Kamerka from the Germans.

ON THE 7TH DAY HE RESTED; THEY TOIL ON FOR HIM

Activities Never Cease at Edgewater Church.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

If something called God were lost in a resurgent sea of paganism or a new tide of scientific humanism, if Jesus of Nazareth had been found a myth, with no power or light for the human mind, there would be no story to write about such an institution as the Edgewater Presbyterian church of Chicago, 1020 Bryn Mawr avenue.

The Rev. Adolph Bohn.

But here it stands on a steadfast rock, a four story building without steeple or stained glass windows, with no bells calling laggard steps to its shadow, but with elevators, a manse on the roof, a gymnasium, 40 rooms for social gatherings, the church home of 52 organizations and 1,300 families, a Sunday school of 2,000 and one of the largest classes for young men and women in the country, the famous Cross classes, founded by the late Henry H. Cross, wealthy oil man. Mr. Cross died Saturday at his home, Tranquillity Farm, Purcellville, Va.

A $500,000 Plant with a Heart.

In the center of the $500,000 structure, which looks like a college campus building, is the heart of it all, the church of which the Rev. Adolph Bohn is the minister, holding his flock to its central purpose, that of a church of God. He came here last November from a University of Illinois pastorate.

On Sunday and on all the other days of the week the place is vibrant with life, particularly young life, and the spirit that radiates from it makes rather dim and tawdry the competing dance halls, night clubs, taverns, and poolrooms of the neighborhood.

Community Center, as Well.

The Edgewater church is also a community center.

"Hundreds come here every day," says Dr. Bohn. "We try to practice religion seven days of the week. We seek to develop souls through these organizations. I am ready to praise and honor the youth of today. On last Christmas day we had a youth communion with 590 present. Some young people are here five nights a week. We try to build a full, rounded life; to translate religion into daily practice, where creed becomes a consecration of life, not a theory or something in a book. I think religion is an increasing influence. A million souls joined the church in America last year. Preaching is the acme of ministry, but personal work is the heart which catches the pulse beat of the people. This is like a doctor's office at times. Men on their way to suicide in the lake have seen these lights and have been saved."

The secretary of the church is Mrs. W. A. Cunny.

Two preaching services on Sundays and prayer meetings on Wednesday evenings are included in the activities of this church. It has a short wave radio station. There are fencing and drama clubs, glee clubs, basketball teams. Parties, pep meetings, steak fries, bicycle parties are part of the program for the young people. The church is planning a homecoming, a sort of college campus idea, for Oct. 15.

Samuel R. Burkholder is musical director of the church. He has led chorus choirs at the Chicagoland Music Festival and at the recent Legion convention. Guy C. Latchaw, musical director of Moody Institute, leads the singing and glee clubs for the young people's organizations. Active church workers are Frank Boyd, investment broker; Dr. A. P. Hedges, Dr. A. M. Johnson, N. Ray Miller, broker; Dr. L. J. Murphy, and William A. Peterson, retired banker. A. M. Lauck, dental supplies dealer, is vice moderator. Dr. C. W. Forslund is president of the board of trustees. Franklin [Bud] Lovering, who is in the oil business, is president of the Cross club for men, and Grayce Johnson, a beauty operator, is president of the girls' club.

The younger deacons have a Good Fellow club at Christmas, and do work in relief and sick visitation. The girls' Cross club is paying for a Chinese girl's education, raises a milk fund for Association house and has a revolving business scholarship for girls. Other groups are the professional business women's class, of which Ruth Kose is president; the Women's Association of Edgewater, of which Mrs. C. H. Lockwood is president. Mrs. George J. Schmidt, a wealthy widow, has given largely to refinancing and other church needs.

The Cross class was started in 1924 with three boys. Since then 20,000, from 16 to 25 years of age, have been members. At the time of its highest membership it had 1,108 present one Sunday. The girls organized in 1935.

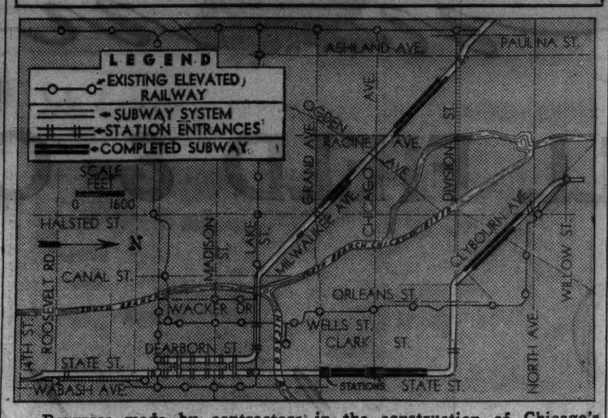
Class officials are nominated by parties, run on the order of political conventions, with all members delegates. In the present campaign rival candidates for president are Ray Evans, a young printer, and Dr. Dewitt Potter.

George Barker, one of the first three members of the class, and Dr. Milburn Johnson are two older members who still attend classes. Arthur Gasparini, who works in a brokerage house; Chris Jorgensen, an insurance man; Charles Wray, Walter Anderson, an engineer, and Norman Tufte, a bond salesman, are other members of long standing.

The good that has been done by the class could never be told, says Ray Evans. George Ricketts [of the restaurant family] and Chuck Rowlson, a salesman, are other workers.

Edgewater church is a place where religion and daily life really seem to meet.

Progress on City's Subways



Progress made by contractors in the construction of Chicago's subway system is shown on this map. Approximately a fourth of the digging necessary has been completed.

15 Months to Go

Nearly one-fourth of Chicago's eight mile subway tunnel has been completed in the eleven months since the project was approved by the city council and the federal Public Works administration, the subway department reported yesterday.

The remaining three-fourths of the tunnels and 25 mezzanine stations must be built in less than 15 months if the Dec. 31, 1940, deadline set by the PWA in its $18,000,000 subway grant is to be met.

Philip Harrington, commissioner of subways and traction, said work has been going ahead rapidly in the last few months and predicted that the project would be finished by the PWA deadline. The cost of the subway, originally placed at 40 million dollars, now is estimated at 46 million.

LEADERS REVIEW 5,000 MARCHING KNIGHTS TEMPLAR

Five thousand white plumed Knights Templars marched in a stately parade yesterday as the public climax of their three day state convention. They comprise the uniformed branch of the Masonic order.

The parade moved south on Michigan avenue from Oak street to Ohio street, then turned east to reach the Chicago arena at Erie street and McClurg court. Here the eighty color bearers stepped out to form a massed display of American flags and the black and white beauseant, banner of the order.

In the reviewing stand at the arena were Grand Commander Frank Ingram Hooper of River Forest and Charles Hunt Toothe of Galesburg, Ill., who will take over the duties of state leader today.

Some 1,100 Knights and their wives attended a formal dinner in the Drake hotel last night. The principal speaker was the Rev. Chester Burge Emerson, Cleveland, O., who represented the national grand master.

EYE AND EAR SESSIONS START IN CITY TODAY

Topics ranging from treatment of squinting eyes to new operations for deafness are on the program of the 44th annual convention of the American Academy of Ophthalmology and Otolaryngology, which opened yesterday in the Palmer House. More than 2,000 eye, ear, nose and throat specialists are expected to attend the convention, which will continue through Friday.

Three hundred attended a banquet last night honoring the founders of the American Board of Opthalmology. The academy's annual banquet, at which Dr. Shurly will be presented with a medal, will be Wednesday night.

You've hit your inner stride

....when you regain healthy per-i-stal-sis

You swing along, carefree as a summer day...there's easy balance in every motion, once you hit your inner stride!

This inner stride depends on a motion within the intestines known as per-i-stal-sis. When peristalsis is healthy, your intestines contract ...expand...in steady rhythm. When it's off-stride, you're apt to suffer constipation, heaviness.

What's often needed is a thorough, gentle, flushing-out...to make healthy elimination possible. You'll find Eno an answer to this need!

Eno has fluid-action

When you take Eno in water moisture from other parts of the body is brought down to the intestines where extra fluid is wanted. This fluid-action...plus a mild stimulation...quickly flushes out waste.

Now healthy peristalsis has a chance to start again. You're ready to hit your stride once more!

Remember: Eno "alkalizes"

Bridal Gowns New in Line and Materials

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Costuming a late autumn or early winter bridal pageant is exciting because clothes are so different. The 1939 bride walks down the aisle in a full skirted gown of cream ivory faille severely unadorned, the stiff splendor of the fabric needing nothing to make it the eye-pulling success it will be.

The long fitted basque bodice buttons down the front with six or seven dozen small covered buttons. Sleeves are long and tight. The wide train and skirt are bound with a rolled band of the faille. The veil is short, worn over a demure double ruched turban of the same faille.

Another stately wedding gown is of gleaming white satin. The wide skirt, worn over a hooped underskirt is pulled up in front to show the petticoat of white. The petticoat is covered with ruffles of white lace. The bodice fits as snugly as satin can be stretched and the off the shoulder décolletage accents the tiny puffed sleeves and the wasp waistline.

Handsome heavy white silk moiré is another lovely wedding gown material. It is even more lovely if it glints with silver threads. A wedding gown of this moiré uses nothing but yards and yards of the fabric in the gown. Sometimes the hemline is scalloped in huge shallow scoops, sometimes the bodice is short and fitted to a gathered-on skirt. Other times the moiré is cut in statuesque lines if the bride-to-be is tall and willowy.

Beautiful silk brocade fashions other exquisite bridal gowns. One with a shimmering design of lilies against the dull silk background; another has large entwined bow knots, and a third has a small all-over pattern of buds, vines, leaves, and small forget-me-nots, a pattern like the famous waistcoat brocades worn by the court dandies of long ago.

Polish Artists Make Benefit a Musical Success

BY EDWARD BARRY.

The Polish people of Chicago, all of whom are connected with their one time homeland by sentiment and many by birth or education, gathered in good numbers in the Civic Opera house last night to offer their money and their sympathy to Poland. The occasion was a benefit concert sponsored by the Legion of Young Polish women.

The event was successful from a musical as well as a financial standpoint. Thaddeus Kozuch, pianist; George Czaplicki, baritone, and Michael Wilkomirski, violinist—all Poles by birth or descent and all high grade artists—coöperated in the presentation of a program which consisted largely of seldom heard Polish music.

There was a Paderewski nocturne, an excerpt from Moniuszko's "Verbum Nobile," two mazurkas of Szymanowski, and songs by such strangers to standard programs as Karlowicz and Malinowski. The more familiar music of Chopin also found place, as well as various pieces by Dvorak, Bizet, and other non-Poles.

The concert was under the honorary protectorate of Dr. Waclaw Gawronski, consul general of the republic of Poland, and of Mme. Zofia Gawronska. Alexander Aster provided brilliant accompaniments for Mr. Czaplicki and Mr. Wilkomirski.

A program in the Auditorium recital hall yesterday afternoon featured two newcomers from Czecho-Slovakia who are likely to be important in Chicago's musical life. Mildred Grey Heller, an American born soprano who has appeared extensively abroad, sang excerpts from Czech operas as well as a miscellany of art and folk songs from Germany, France, Italy, Spain, Czecho-Slovakia, and the United States. She was accompanied by her husband, Adolf Heller, who has to his credit 18 years' experience as an opera and concert conductor in Czecho-Slovakia and Germany.

Mrs. Heller's voice is warm of color and possessed of a great dynamic range. She projects her music with passion and sincerity. The generally excellent impression which she makes is marred by a habit of breaking her phrases, even in lyrical music, with violent accents and sudden, causeless fortes. Mr. Heller's accompanying is packed with finely conceived and executed effects.

The Hellers were assisted yesterday by Margaret McKee, a young pianist who performed a Friedman minuet and a Poulenc novelette with grace and taste.

The Salvation Army presented in Orchestra hall yesterday a musical service of praise which enlisted the Territorial Staff band, the Salvation choristers, and the Congress chorus. Commissioner E. I. Pugmire presided. The audience was given opportunities to participate in some of the majestic chorus work which punctuated the program and to share in the exaltation which comes of singing to the accompaniment of a broad, noble, clarinetless band.

Women to Take Trip on Fireboat Today, Recalling '71 Blaze

The anniversary of the Chicago fire of 1871 and Fire Prevention week will be observed by the Alliance of Business and Profession Women of Chicago with a trip this morning on the fireboat Fred Busse. Fire Commissioner Michael J. Corrigan and Deputy Chief Fire Marshal A. J. Mullaney will be hosts to the party. This evening Fire Commissioner Corrigan will be the Alliance's guest at a dinner at the Chicago Woman's club.

Women's Drive Adds Orchestra Box Subscribers

BY JUDITH CASS.

AN especially cheery and pleasant topic of conversation at a buffet luncheon the trustees of the Orchestral association are giving today in the grand foyer of Orchestra hall will be the addition of several names to the list of season box subscribers. The good news is due to the untiring efforts of the association's woman's committee, which has been hard at work all summer.

Only one name each has been added to the boxholders for Thursday nights and Friday afternoons, but there are several additions to the Tuesday series list. Mrs. Arthur A. Small has taken the Tuesday box which was held for some time by her sister, the late Mrs. Robert R. McCormick. The others are Mrs. Telfer MacArthur, Mrs. George A. Kelly, Mrs. Edwin M. Hadley, Mrs. Raymond C. Dudley, and Mrs. William N. Eisendrath Jr. The new Thursday boxholder is Leeds Mitchell. Mrs. George A. Thorne is the Friday addition.

Heads of Both Groups to Speak at Luncheon.

Today's luncheon party is being given for members of the association and the woman's committee. Edward L. Ryerson Jr., president of the association, and Mrs. Bartholomay Osborne, chairman of the woman's committee, will speak. They and the other luncheon guests have been invited to attend the Chicago Symphony orchestra's first rehearsal at 10 o'clock.

Dr. Frederick Stock, who is entering his 35th year as director of the orchestra, will introduce its new members. The symphony's 49th season will open on Thursday. A rare 1730 Guarneri violin that will be used by John Weicher, concert master, during the season, will be on view at the luncheon. It has been lent to the orchestra by Mrs. Frances Glessner Lee.

From present indications the Thursday night series will continue to be popular with the younger generation. On the list of boxholders are such young benedicts as Talcott Griswold, Edgar Stanton Jr., Francis R. Stanton, Aldis J. Browne Jr., Gaylord Donnelley, and William B. Cudahy. The young men-about-town also on this list are Durand Smith and William C. Parke.

Mrs. Francis T. A. Junkin, Mrs. Gustavus F. Swift, Mrs. Walter A. Strong, Mrs. Emmons Blaine, and Mrs. Charles S. Davis have Friday as well as Thursday boxes. Most of them turn the boxes over to younger members of the family for the evening performances, however. Mrs. Potter Palmer has a Friday box; her daughter, Miss Pauline Palmer, has subscribed for a box on Tuesdays.

City Opera Woman's Board to Have Luncheon Today.

Another large group of women who are interested in musical events will meet for luncheon at 12:45 o'clock on Thursday at the Casino. They are the 46 members of the woman's board of the Chicago City Opera company. Their luncheon host will be Robert Hall McCormick.

Among the members of this board are Mrs. J. Ogden Armour, Mrs. Laurance H. Armour, Mrs. Walter S. Brewster, Mrs. John Alden Carpenter, Mrs. Charles H. Hamill, Mrs. Robert E. Wood, and Mrs. Louis Eckstein.

While the Chicago Symphony is rehearsing in Orchestra hall this morning the Woman's Symphony will be having its first rehearsal with Mme. Edith Mason at 431 South Wabash avenue. Mme. Mason and Mario Chamlee will appear with the sym-

Minister of Propaganda Goebbels was about to make an important announcement to the press. It would last eight minutes and would be read, he said. He wanted no interruptions. Any questions could be asked later. Goebbels began to read and after some three minutes a reporter for an American newspaper started sneezing. The minister of propaganda paused, glared, then continued. After a few more minutes the reporter, who had stopped sneezing, started again.

"What are your sneezing for?" demanded Goebbels, infuriated.

"I'm allergic to bushwa," explained the reporter apologetically.

Good Morning!

You sort of keep expecting to find Jack Holt just around a corner in this picture. Because "Coast Guard" is the type of film in which he and Ralph Graves were so often cofeatured and he ALWAYS lost the girl.

This trip Ralph Bellamy is the good Old Faithful who loves and loses; Randolph Scott is the glamorous HE whom THE GIRL—Frances Dee—just can't and won't get along without, despite the fact she knows Ralphie would make her by far the better husband.

Speed Bradshaw is ace coast guard plane pilot. Lieut. Raymond Dower labors on the boats. Tobias Bliss is a freighter's captain who is rescued from a watery grave by Dower. While convalescing in the hospital, attended by his charming granddaughter, Nancy, Bliss is visited by Dower, who falls in love with Nancy—and is called awa' on duty.

Speed volunteers to look after the little girl for Raymond—and does. He marries her, to be exact.

When Dower returns, the honeymoon is over and the bride has settled down to long evenings with her fair forehead pressed against a window pane—for Speed was never intended to be a married man and arrive home on time for dinner.

There comes a day when Dower is lost in arctic snows . . . Speed, who, for reasons the film shall show, has been grounded, begs to go to his assistance. . . . He wins permission, succeeds in rescuing his pal, and has his little soul all washed clean by harrowing experiences. . . .

Guess I won't tell you how the movie ends. YOU guess.

Good little show with popular folks in the leads and mighty competent "support" playing. Also some storm scenes in which nature really does go to town.

See you tomorrow.

Looking at Hollywood

By Ed Sullivan

Bagdad-on-the-Pacific

Hollywood, Cal., Oct. 8.—Lew Ayres and Evelyn Atchinson of the Earl Carroll cuties, a twosome. . . . Young Ann Rutherford of the Hardy series and Chuck Isaacs in tune, but Gus Kahn's lad, Don, is ready to offer some serious opposition. . . . Sonja Henie out stepping with Alan Curtis, the Chicago lad who gets a good flicker break in "Hollywood Cavalcade." . . . Tiny June Preisser, who clicks in "Babes in Arms," as the ex-child movie star, prefers Dr. Gaylord Hauser. . . . Reginald Gardiner and Frances Robinson, the Universal looker, are making it a habit. . . . Ona Munson is seeing a lot of Harris Hammond. . . . It was a bad week for the glamor girls—Barbara Stanwyck had 42 stitches when her wrist was gashed, and Alice Faye lost her home by fire. . . . Despite rumors that Orson Welles and Shirley Temple had feuded when they posed for publicity pictures, he'll coach her for her Christmas eve radio debut; she'll do part of "Bluebird."

Warner's adjusted John Garfield's salary; you can bet they'll hoist Bette Davis'. . . . Mrs. Eddie Cantor, giving a surprise party for Mrs. Ted Lewis, to celebrate the 24th wedding anniversary of the Lewises, had to make emergency plans for a flying exit. Her daughter, Natalie [Mrs. Joseph Metzger], was expecting Sir Stork momentarily. . . . Herbert Marshall out with his Lee Russell. . . . Muriel Hutchison and Tom Rutherford romancing again. . . . Jinx Falkenburg, stunner who appears in those cigaret ads, will be laid up for another month at Cedars of Lebanon hospital. Forty-eight hours ago her condition was critical, but she's rallied and is now believed out of danger.

M-G-M still insists they won't adjust Hedy Lamarr's salary. Ten dollars will get them twenty. . . . "Good Morning," the song that Mickey Rooney and Judy Garland warble in "Babes in Arms," is too much like an oldie that went this way: "For there are men who love now and then, but who vanish—they hear wedding bells ringing. So you must agree it's going to be, forever or never with me." For the life of me, I can't remember whether Helen Ford sang it in "Dearest Enemy" or Marilyn Miller sang it in "Sunny." . . . Orson Welles [with a beard] and Paulette Goddard [without a beard] cutting up one of Pancho's rhumbas. . . . Pat Byrne, the girl with the Hedy Lamarr hair-do, who has been going places with Cubby Broccoli, has changed her tag to Pat Nane. But Byrne or Nane, Mickey Rooney would love to know her better.

Now that Felix Young, fed up with the headaches involved, has shuttered the Trocadero, the movie colony will realize what a grand night club he created for it. . . . Jane Bryan and William Holden don't have to make believe for the love scenes in "Invisible Stripes." . . . Townsend Netcher and Connie Talmadge still keeping dates. . . . Natalie Draper and Prince David Mdivani inseparable.

Ross Alexander's widow will try it again with Bill Lundigan. . . . Joan Crawford and Cesar Romero answered hecklers by winning an impromptu dancing contest at the Troc, hands down, two nights before it closed. They were sensational! . . . Sir Stork will make a December landing at the Fred Fredericks'. He's head stylist at Max Factor's; she was Diane Cook of the Broadway musicals.

Lupe Velez, prettier than ever, is making the spots with Maury Anders. . . . On the heels of Frank Capra's "Mr. Smith Goes to Washington," a triumph in direction, Ernst Lubitsch wheeled into action with "Ninotchka," the long awaited Greta Garbo starrer. Garbo's portrayal of the femme commissar from soviet Russia detailed to Paris by the comrades to check up on three other comrades who have succumbed to the capitalistic manner of living, is the finest femme comedy portrayal of the screen. They've done a lot of clowning about "the Lubitsch touch," but you'll agree that it's a deft and magic touch when you see Greta and Melvyn Douglas as a team. . . . Recommended: Alice Marble warbling "Comes Love," a tennis parody on the song, at Café Lamaze. Her deep tones are excellent, and she has a million dollars worth of charm.

They Hunted a Fox

By Alice Campbell

[Copyright: 1939: By Alice Ormond Campbell.]

SYNOPSIS.

Alison Young and her fiancé, Dr. Colin Ladbroke, are guests at Chenerys, the English country estate of Tom Boldre, to attend a fox hunt and ball. Wynn Marchmont, sister of Tom's wife, Pat, is engaged to Tom's brother, Derek, a veterinary. Alison overhears a love scene between Pat and Arthur Kingsclere. Chenerys is mortgaged to the hilt. Gregg, Tom's agent, urges him to accept an offer made for the estate, but Tom refuses to sell. At the hunt, from a far off hill, Alison and Colin see Tom thrown and a man bending over him. When they reach the accident they find Derek stooping over Tom's prostrate form. A farmer, Glover, happens along and helps them. Tom, revived, is surprised that Derek, rather than his neighbor, Maj. Fitts, found him. Three weeks later Tom is again thrown and dies soon after. Alison visits Wynn at Chenerys. Riding near the scene of Tom's first accident they find the dead body of Glover. Official verdict is that Glover was killed by a shot from a passing car. Kingsclere, Derek and Maj. Fitts all drove that way. Inspector Headcorn from Scotland Yard investigates. He finds the murder weapon. It belongs to Maj. Fitts, but was stolen the afternoon of the day Glover was shot—after Kingsclere and Derek had called. Dr. Blount, who'd attended Tom and pronounced his death due to a heart attack, suffers an apparent stroke while the inspector questions him. His colleague, Dr. Cox, says he can't be disturbed for three weeks. The inspector sends for Dr. Colin Ladbroke, who knew Tom's heart was sound. Colin exposes Dr. Blount's illness as a fake and gets him to admit he gave Tom an anti-tetanus injection, which caused his death, as he had not been desensitized after a previous injection. The first injection must have been given Tom after his first fall when he was unconscious—whoever gave it must have murdered Glover because he was a witness—and Derek was seen bending over Tom.

INSTALMENT XXV.

AUTOPSY RESULTS.

Alison started for the stairs. Wynn detained her.

"You must not go home now. I beg you not to do anything so silly and unkind. Pat will think—can you blame her?—you just don't want to be mixed up in an unpleasant situation. And another thing," Wynn added it under her breath, ashamedly, "with you here, Pat will be less likely to—to say anything that—that could lend itself to misconstruction."

It was the first reference to knowledge common to both their minds. Alison saw the point and nodded, avoiding Wynn's eyes.

"Let's change," said Wynn sensibly. "After all, there's really no more to be said, is there? At least, not now."

It seemed, though, that there was, for a little later, while Alison was running her bath, Wynn came into the big bedroom and shut the door softly behind her. She had a small red comb in her hand, and as she stood talking she yanked it cruelly through her curls.

"By the way," she began, too carelessly, "has Colin told you about how this anti-tetanus stuff works?"

Alison gave the information, making desperate efforts to use scientific detachment. Once, when the fortnight interval was mentioned, the red comb arrested, poised. Only for a half-second. Then it went on with its task.

"I see," observed Wynn coolly. "Odd, don't you think, that nothing seems to be known about the revolver that killed Glover?"

Alison glanced at her, startled. Wynn's mind was moving rapidly.

"Nothing, I support, except the caliber. Some one told us—Maj. Fitts, was it?—the bullets belonged to a .45."

"Yes, a Colt's .45. Every one knows that now." Wynn frowned hard at her reflection and drew a neat side-parting along her head. "Well," she remarked, "Derek sold his revolver ages ago."

"Tom had one, I imagine?" asked Alison, and straightway could have bitten her tongue.

"Yes, a Colt's .48. It's in the table drawer, in the office. And Gregg's revolver happens to be a Smith and Wesson .32."

Once again Alison found nothing to say.

Suddenly the girl at the mirror dug the comb deep into her waves and left it there. She was listening.

"That's Derek." Abruptly she went out.

Derek was just turning in from outdoors. Wynn went close to him and asked, "Well, what have you found out?"

"Nothing much. Just that they're holding a post mortem. Stafford's wild, of course."

"He would be. Is it because of what Dr. Blount said?"

"So one gathers."

Why didn't he say anything? Just wooden, eyes fixed on a spot past her shoulder.

"Then it was this inspector who got Blount to admit things? It was! Which means——"

But why put it into speech? Derek was no fool. He knew, just as she did, the one way in which Tom's death could be linked up with the shooting of Glover.

She would have liked it better if Derek had shown greater willingness for discussion. Still, knowing him—she repeated this to herself rather insistently—she let him be and went slowly upstairs.

When the butler came through the baize door to collect ash trays and reassemble the lounge, he found Gregg holding an opened letter in his hand and exploring the room with tentative, lack-luster eyes.

"Mr. Derek back?" the latter inquired.

Padgett, drawing the curtains, did not turn as he answered, "He may be, sir. I heard some one go up."

It was an off-hand reply, the discourtesy of which Gregg seemed to expect.

"No notion, I suppose, what the detective chap wanted?"

"Not the slightest." Padgett padded flat-footedly to the next window.

"I see," observed the agent, and moved away through the open front door.

Alison, about to descend, heard muted remarks passing between the butler and Bessie, the nice, middle-aged maid. As she paused she could see them both peering out of the farthermost window, which gave on the shrubbery across the drive.

"Old Sour Apple, yes," Padgett was murmuring. "He got no change out of me. Now see where ne's heading. Hopes Major Fitts'll have the whole ins and outs of the business, wotever it may be. As I dessay he will!"

Bessie clicked her tongue with brief scorn. "Them two! Forever hobnobbing. Couple of old hens . . ."

. . . . . .

Headcorn pushed open the door of the small mortuary. Two quiet forms in linen overalls were just shrouding what lay long and bulky on a table.

"And the result?" he asked steadily.

Sir Brian Warner, the Home Office pathologist, turned, nodded a greeting, and began to strip off his rubber gloves.

"Not so simple as last time, eh, Inspector? That was arsenic, I believe. This affair is quite an unusual pair of shoes—and I congratulate you for spotting it."

"Then it wasn't too late?"

"O, Lord, no! A queer business altogether, though whether criminal in the ordinary sense——" The big man lifted the sheet and took a last look at the corpse's pallid features. "Heart!" he said. "Well, depend on it, Inspector, no normal accident stopped that organ's functioning. Your hunch was correct."

The police surgeon splashed water into a basin and started washing his hands. Slightly sick—excitement, or was it the stench of disinfectant? Headcorn listened while Sir Brian recited his findings.

"Hyperemia of the liver. Lungs, acute emphysemea. That's to say, blown right out. Bleeding in the suprarenal bodies, ulcers in the duodenum. Fairly complete."

"And to sum up——?"

"Why, beyond a vestige of doubt, a typical anaphyllactic reaction! This poor chap died as the direct outcome of receiving, without intervening desensitization, two full doses of anti-tetanus serum."

The dragging sounds came from Wynn's room. Pushing the door inward Derek asked, "What the devil are you up to?"

The bed was jumbled with garments. Over the lid of a suitcase Wynn glared as though caught.

"Packing," said Derek, evenly. "I see."

"Why not?" Busily she rolled up a peach tinted chemise. "I shall have to get back, you know."

"Quite." He turned quietly away.

Her face worked. "Derek! Come here."

"Well?"

WHEN YOUR LIVER ACTS UP . . . YOUR SPIRITS GO DOWN

A liver that fails to secrete all the bile it should may be the cause of much of the misery of temporary constipation. It is important therefore that the laxative you take also helps stimulate sufficient bile flow to act on intestinal waste. This is why Beechams Pills are increasingly favored as a laxative. By helping stimulate bile flow, this purely vegetable compound helps drive away the headachy, tired feeling that comes from faulty elimination. Buy Beechams Pills at your druggist's—10¢, 25¢, 50¢.

October 9, 1939.

An energetic day for those who have skill enough to swap horses in midstream. Use judgment. For those born today or on Jan. 9, this month brings some responsibilities, but since the year as a whole offered greater freedom the required sacrifice of self-interests won't be too much to ask. October gives them a foretaste of their year ahead.

Seven Masquerade Costumes

WOMEN'S AND CHILDREN'S COSTUMES.

This one easy pattern creates seven different masquerade costumes, and comes in sizes for little children and adults. If there's a family party in the offing for Halloween, this one inexpensive pattern can outfit seven feminine members of it for a gala evening. The styles include a gown for a Colonial dame, a shepherdess, a Pierette, a Dutch girl, a queen of diamonds, a fairy and a cape costume with black cats for decoration.

According to size and style, each of these versions requires different amounts of material. For details, consult the pattern envelope.

Style No. 2867 is designed for sizes 4, 8, 12, 16 and 20.

Address orders for Clotilde patterns to Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central annex, NEW YORK CITY, including 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred—wrap it carefully) for each pattern ordered. IMPORTANT! Be sure to state clearly the number of the pattern and the size desired, and write your name and address plainly.

For 15 cents buy the fall and winter Chicago Tribune Book of Clotilde Fashions on sale at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower; 10 cents if ordered with a pattern. Address mail orders to New York address above.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

Women have done a good job of improving their color sense where lipstick is concerned. Now we should turn to color harmony in nail enamels. It's important, and consciousness of the difference in shades is the starting point.

As with lipstick or any other vivid color accent, the shade of nail enamel should be chosen either to harmonize or to contrast dramatically with the costume color. Wearing one nail polish shade with everything will be most unsatisfactory if you have much color in your wardrobe—and this year every woman seems to have just that.

You see lots of clear red color accents. The best dressed woman we saw last week was in black with a brilliant clear red turban—no other color relief. Her nails matched the red of the turban perfectly and so did her lipstick.

There is a great deal of brown this season; to match these the nail polish makers have been busy and you'll shortly see some beautiful warm reds with soft brown undertones. With the right costume color they're stunning.

If you like color in your clothes you must own and use more than one shade of nail polish. To be safe, have at least three: One true red, one with blue understones, and one with a faint, warm suggestion of brown mixed in with the soft red.

Deep fat frying is a simpler process than those homemakers who aren't familiar with it may realize. No special equipment is needed. A regulation deep fat kettle with frying basket is a good investment, but not a necessary one. A straight sided, fairly heavy aluminum sauce pan will do beautifully And it shouldn't be too large a pan.

A deep fat thermometer is the most accurate gauge of temperature. Although highly desirable, the thermometer isn't indispensable, either. The old fashioned bread cube test for temperature is fairly reliable.

TEMPERATURES FOR DEEP FAT FRYING.

Doughnuts, fritters, and meat croquettes—350 to 375 degrees, or the temperature at which a one inch bread cube will brown in 60 seconds.

French fried, shoestring, or chip potatoes—375 to 385 degrees, or the temperature at which a one inch bread cube will brown in 40 seconds.

Vegetable shortenings have many properties which make them good frying mediums. They have been hydrogenated, undergoing a process which makes them more stable and prevents them from absorbing flavors and odors easily, so that one may use them again and again for deep fat frying. They have high smoking points, so that danger of fat decomposition from overheating is lessened. Hydrogenated lard makes a good deep frying medium, too.

Ordinary lards may be used for deep fat frying if they aren't overheated, if they are carefully strained after use, and if they are stored properly so that they keep cold and fresh.

It's a good idea to keep a can of deep frying fat on hand and to use it for no other purpose than deep frying. Every time it has been used, strain it through cheese cloth back into the can and store in a cool place until it is wanted again. If lard is selected, besides straining it, one should cook slices of raw potato in the fat occasionally to remove absorbed flavors.

POINTERS IN DEEP FAT FRYING.

1. Avoid overheating the fat by keeping a check on the temperature.
2. Have the fat come about halfway up the sides of the kettle.
3. Do not crowd the kettle.
4. Dry potato chips or other damp foods before frying.

"The bidding:

North	East	South	West
Pass	1 spade	2 hearts	3 diamonds
Pass	3 spades	4 hearts	Pass
Pass	Pass

"I won't claim that the bidding was very good. It happened in a 'social game' and there was nothing at stake. The play, however, was very interesting.

"West led the spade queen. It is worth noting that if East had overtaken and cashed the diamond king there would have been no play for the contract. East, however, encouraged with the spade eight and West continued with the deuce. This marked West with only two spades originally and East with six. I ruffed the second lead with the nine of hearts, overtook the heart five with dummy's seven, ruffed a third round of spades, overtook the heart ten with dummy's king, and ruffed the last spade. I saw that the only chance to make the hand was for East to have the ace or king of diamonds singleton, and, therefore, I led a small diamond. West played the nine but I ducked in dummy and, to my great pleasure, East had to win with the king. His return was immaterial: If he had chosen to lead a spade, I could have chucked my club four while ruffing in dummy, then taken the club finesse, after which I would have had to concede only one diamond trick. On East's actual choice of a low club, I won in dummy with the jack, finessed again on a return club lead, and conceded only one more diamond. As you will see, I lost in all only one spade trick and two diamonds. J. B., Alabama."

The declarer did considerable bidding all by himself.

While declarer's play was excellent and took full advantage of a fortunate lay of cards, this is just one more of those instances in which most of the "credit" for the fulfilled contract must be given to the defenders. I do not maintain that East could have foreseen the situation that eventually developed, but I do say that there was no excuse for his failure to overtake the opening lead and lay down the diamond king. For all he could tell, the spade queen might be singleton, in which case the overtake play would certainly work out to the best advantage, inasmuch as West could not be expected to underlead his probable diamond ace at the second trick.

To return to declarer's play: His analysis that success depended entirely on finding a singleton diamond king or ace in the East hand was quite correct. Also, in view of the bidding, this was by no means a remote chance, considering that West, who had bid three diamonds, evidently did not hold both the ace and king.

On the House

Rather a Siamese twin arrangement of tub and shower stall is seen in some of our new and practical-minded houses. With such an arrangement you have a three-sided shower compartment with the fourth side occupied by the tub. This is planned so you can step into the shower through a glass door or from the tub. And for the upper part of the outer wall behind the tub and shower there is glass brick to add light and privacy. LOUISE BARGELT.

Thousands View Autumn Beauty in Woodlands

BY DORIS LOCKERMAN.

These are perfect days in the forest preserves, days when the expectant hush of autumn is shattered with the shrill cries of children, and the haze of camp fires rises about the gaudy trees.

Yesterday, with sunlight glinting now and then on the pathways, thousands of Chicagoans roamed through the woods. They traveled on bicycles, on horseback, or on foot, in pairs or in droves, raking the leaves with their movement. Beside them flamed the yellow linden trees, the wahoo bush thrust out its star-shaped crimson fruit and clumps of tangerine bittersweet clung on its branches.

Birds sang. Warblers and sparrows and chickadees have stopped here on their way south. Maples have changed from green to yellow and now to blushing pink, and the sumac these days poses its blood red fingers against the tree trunks. And on the roadsides, piles of pumpkin, waxen and gold, and baskets of apples added their succulent proof that fall is here.

Within two weeks, say foresters, this beauty will not be. The drouth has already dried the woodland streams and made of trails a powdery carpet for hikers and horses. The leaves of many trees have fallen prematurely, parched and crisp. All but two of the marshes in the forests have dried and cracked, and most of the fall migrant ducks, the coots, mallards and blue winged teal, have deserted them.

The forest preserves hold open house each day. The people who roamed through the by-ways yesterday were invited and welcome. Noel Wysong, assistant chief forester, requests that visitors to the preserves be especially careful of fire because of the increase in hazard caused by the drouth.

BY GEORGE STRICKLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Cleveland, O., Oct. 8.—Chicago's Bears returned to Cleveland today, where last year they fumbled away a football game and their chances for the western division championship of the National league. They promptly fumbled the Rams into a 24 point lead in the first four minutes, but from then on they settled down to play football the like of which no Bear team has equaled since the title days of 1933. Three touchdowns in the second period wiped out the Rams' lead and two more in the third period guaranteed a 35 to 21 triumph before 18,209 in Municipal stadium.

After Bob Swisher's fumble of the opening kickoff had set up Cleveland's first touchdown and Ray Nolting's miscue on the first play from scrimmage following this score had paved the way for another, the Bears' regulars were held on even terms until the end of the first quarter.

All-Star Backs Shine.

A reserve line backed by the Bears' All-Star back field of Bill Osmanski, Billy Patterson and Bob MacLeod took the field at the intermission and promptly organized the rally that sent the Bears into a 21 to 14 lead at half time.

Patterson passed twenty-two yards to MacLeod for the first touchdown. He passed to Osmanski for a thirty-six yard gain which placed the ball on the 15 yard line, whence the former Holy Cross star went over in eight consecutive line smashes for the second score. On the next play from scrimmage, MacLeod intercepted Parker Hall's pass and, behind excellent blocking by Chester Chesney, former De Paul center, returned forty-five yards for another touchdown.

Milwaukee, Wis., Oct. 8 [Special].—Scoring in every quarter and exhibiting a sharp reversal of form from a week ago, the Green Bay Packers bounced back in the running for the western division title in the National Professional Football league by conquering the Chicago Cardinals today, 27 to 20. The game, the first of two for the Packers in Milwaukee this season, attracted a record breaking local crowd of 23,000 despite threatening weather.

It was the third triumph for Green Bay in the 1939 campaign against one loss, that to Cleveland, last week. The defeat was the second for the Cardinals at the hands of Green Bay, the first setback occurring three weeks ago, 14 to 10.

SOX TIE CUBS IN 8TH; BEAT 'EM IN TENTH, 8 TO 5

Schlueter's Double Off Lee Clinches Game.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Bill Dietrich and Norm Schlueter, relief battery for the White Sox in the fifth game of the city series played before 17,227 in Wrigley field yesterday, emerged brilliant heroes in an 8 to 5 Sox victory in ten innings to prolong the series at least one more game.

Dietrich took over in the fifth when the Cubs were leading, 5 to 0, on nine hits off John D. Rigney. He held the Cubs to two scratch infield singles in the six innings he worked. Schlueter's heroic part came with two out and two on in the tenth when he banged out a double off Bill Lee, to score two runs, then scored on a freak play. He reached third on a passed ball and went on home after the deeply distressed Lee fumbled Gus Mancuso's return of the ball to the pitcher's mound.

In the first four innings Rigney and the Sox seemed hopelessly outclassed by Claude Passeau and the Cubs. The Cubs slapped Rigney all over the place, the high points being a homer by Augie Galan in the third and singles by Mancuso and Stan Hack and a double by Bill Herman, good for the Cubs' last two runs in the fourth. The Sox did not get a man on base in the first three innings and wasted two singles in the fourth.

Passeau Goes Away.

While Dietrich was squelching the Cubs the Sox made their first successful offensive move in the sixth. Mike Kreevich scored two runs with a homer.

In the eighth the Sox knocked out Passeau with a walk and a double by Joe Kuhel and kept after Lee with a walk and two singles aggravated by Hack's error to tie the score and load the bases with one out. The score remained a tie after Pinch Batter Marcum and Dietrich struck out. After the tie not one of the nine Cubs who faced Dietrich got on base.

The sixth game of the series will be played tonight in Comiskey park. If the Cubs win the series will be over. If the Sox win the final will be played tomorrow afternoon, also in Comiskey park. Tonight Charley Root will pitch for the Cubs while Thornton Lee is Manager Dykes' choice.

REDS LOSE 4-2 LEAD; ROUTED IN TENTH, 7 TO 4

New York Takes 4th Title in Row.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Cincinnati, O. Oct. 8.—The reign of the New York Yankees as world champions will continue for another year at least.

For the fourth time in as many seasons they renewed their claim on the big baseball title today, completing a four game sweep over the National league's champion Cincinnati Reds, who with one consoling victory almost within their grasp, fell apart in pitiful fashion. While the Reds were stumbling around in the ninth the Yanks charged into a tie and the Reds were still stumbling in the tenth so the American leaguers just picked up a few more runs and departed for their winter homes. The score was 7 to 4.

Derringer Wilts in 7th.

The Reds made a fight of it as long as Paul Derringer, even more brilliant than when he was beaten in the opening battle, had the strength to suppress the power he knew was lurking in the bats of his enemies. For six innings he choked that power down to one hit and 32,074 Rhinelander partisans were happy. But the load was too great and the journey too long. The Yanks broke him with a pair of homers in the seventh, the first scores of the game, and from then on the battle degenerated into a dizzy free for all.

The Yanks made only one mistake. Their starting pitcher, Oral Hildebrand, yielding only two hits in four innings, had to retire because of a pain in his side. Steve Sundra took over the task and everything proceeded nicely for two more innings.

Simmons Helps Reds Go Ahead.

In the seventh, just after the homers, exploded by Charles Keller and Bill Dickey, the world champions committed their lone blunder. Red Rolfe booted a grounder and old Al Simmons, called into the game in place of Harry Craft, hit a double. There were other happenings, including the removal of Sundra, and the Reds suddenly found themselves leading by 3 to 2. They improved it with a run in the eighth and then crashed dismally on defense.

Freshman Keller, Joe DiMaggio, and Joe Gordon came back with base hits against Bucky Walters in the ninth. The hits did some damage but the real stepping stone to a tie was a boyish fumble by Billy Myers on an easy double play ball. Stunned by this development the Reds were just a stumbling, feeble outfit in the tenth. Ival Goodman erred. Myers blundered again. Ernie Lombardi sat at the plate, a ball not inches away but too dazed to move. So the Yanks scored three times on one hit.

Reds Blow Up Completely.

The crazy tenth, which definitely decided that the National league for the second time in two years had to take a series beating in four games, opened with a pass to Frankie Crosetti. The Yanks, having faith in the finishing power of Johnny Murphy, who had rescued Sundra in the seventh and was credited with the victory, were willing to play for one run. So Red Rolfe bunted Crosetti to second. Keller bounced a grounder to the left of Myers. He fumbled, Crosetti going to third. DiMaggio slashed a single into right, Crosetti scored and the Reds went into such a panic that the two others scored before another ball was pitched.

Goodman charged in to pick up DiMaggio's single. The ball bounced

S. E. HOYT, HEAD OF A. A. U., HURT IN AUTO CRASH

New York, Oct. 8 (AP).—Samuel E. Hoyt Sr., 64, state's attorney of New Haven, Conn., and national president of the Amateur Athletic union, was seriously injured today when his automobile collided with another near the New York World's Fair.

Dr. J. S. Combes said Hoyt suffered a fracture of the skull and brain concussion. His wife, Mrs. Grace Hoyt, was injured slightly.

Hoyt was elected A. A. U. president two years ago in Boston and re-elected unanimously last year at the organization's 50th anniversary convention in Washington, D. C.

SENDOFF PLANNED AS 35 ILLINI LEAVE TODAY FOR COAST

Champaign, Ill., Oct. 8 (AP).—University of Illinois students planned tonight to give their football team a noisy sendoff early tomorrow morning when the squad entrains for Los Angeles, where the Illini play Southern California Saturday.

The scheduled pep meeting at the station is the first organized on the Illinois campus since the team played Southern California here in 1935.

Coach Bob Zuppke will take 35 players along for the game.

TRAGIC COLLAPSE OF REDS RENEWS YANKEES' LEASE ON WORLD TITLE

[Associated Press Wirephotos.]

Three runs on a single in the 10th inning yesterday gave the Yankees a 7 to 4 triumph over the Reds and their fourth consecutive world's championship. Charlie Keller scores behind Frank Crosetti and sets up the situation which enables Joe Di Maggio to complete the circuit on his one base drive.

Keller collided with Ernie Lombardi and the burly Red catcher, stunned, dropped the ball and lay stretched out beside the plate. Di Maggio, whose single had bounded through Ival Goodman in right field, was waved home by Coach Art Fletcher. Lombardi regained his senses and sought to retrieve the ball, but Di Maggio slid over safely to the vocal accompaniment of Umpire Babe Pinelli.

And here's a scene which calls for trafic lights. Three runs are over and all remains confusion—to the startled Reds. Lombardi is still on the ground, while Third Baseman Bill Werber of Cincinnati goes to his assistance. Crosetti and Bill Dickey look on while Di Maggio strides toward the New York dugout. The Yankee bat boy is at the right.

SOUTHWEST GIVES BIG TEN QUITE A FOOTBALL LESSON

N. U., Wisconsin Find Openers Costly.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

The game of football may have been born in the east, have been nurtured in the middle west, but it has reached a sprightly maturity in the south and southwest. When the firing ceased Saturday not only were three of the Western conference teams dizzily figuring what had happened to them but Fordham and Holy Cross, perennial standard bearers of eastern supremacy, had been whipped by Alabama and Louisiana, respectively. And Colgate had been pounded unmercifully by Duke, 37 to 0.

Wisconsin stumbled to a 17 to 7 defeat by Texas. Northwestern, highly ranked in the coming Big Ten race, received its worst trimming in 15 years from Oklahoma, defending Big Six champion, 23 to 0, while Minnesota, Western conference title holder, winner of its opening game, 62 to 0, failed to score against Nebraska and lost, 6 to 0.

Michigan, Iowa, Ohio Win.

In 14 games played so far by all conference teams, only Michigan, Iowa, and Ohio State have not been beaten or tied. Michigan won its opening game Saturday from Michigan State, 26 to 13; Ohio State started successfully by whipping Missouri, 19 to 0, and Iowa, with two victories and a total of 73 points, almost as many as the Hawkeyes scored in the last two years, leads the Big Ten by virtue of conquest of Indiana. That victory requires a particular chapter, for among the items is that of Indiana's 29 points, more than the Hoosiers scored in eight games last year. Iowa's 32 points topped Indiana.

Northwestern's 23 to 0 defeat needs more explanation than to write that Red Hahnenstein fumbled twice, on his 6 yard line in the first period and on his 5 yard line in the third, with both errors translated into touchdowns, or that George Benson, when Floyd Chambers missed the signal in the fourth period, pitched a pass to Oklahoma's full back, John Martin, who ran fifty-four yards for another touchdown.

Waldorf Is Calm.

Players don't fumble deliberately, and such mechanical mistakes may be condoned. Forgiveness doesn't alter the fact that Northwestern fumbled four times, lost possession on three of the occasions, and that, in addition to setting up two touchdowns, the fumble by Don Clawson checked the Wildcats' third period threat on Oklahoma's 25 yard line.

As Coach Lynn Waldorf said after the game, "There were some mistakes by sophomores, and some by juniors and seniors." Waldorf's candid admission that Northwestern played indifferently and his philosophical, calm approach to the problem of improvement before the Wildcats meet Ohio State Saturady is refreshing. But it still remains to be seen whether or not Northwestern has been overrated by a public thinking in terms of sophomore ball carriers and forgetting the necessity for blocking.

Bears Rally to Roll Over Rams, 35 to 21

first extra point, and Jack Manders added the other two. Manders returned at the start of the second half to score the Bears' last 14 points, going over from the 2 yard line early in the third quarter and from the 4 yard line ten plays later.

Cleveland, fresh from its upset victory over Green Bay last week and buoyed by the success of its passing attack, banked on its great back field to carry the fight to the Bears. The two first period fumbles gave it opportunities which it snatched up greedily. But thereafter neither its passing attack nor the power of Johnny Drake and Corby Davis was able to make an impression against the Bear line.

The Bears' pass defense, notorious for its inefficiency, was at its best, principally because of the busy afternoon the two lines gave Hall. Hall was rushed on every pass.

Rams Complete 14 Passes.

Hall and his passing colleague, Marty Slovak from Toledo university, fired thirty passes and completed only fourteen. Two went for touchdowns. Hall passed fifteen yards to Jim Benton for the second Ram score in the first period and a sensational catch by Benton while covered by Sollie Sherman and Chesney in the end zone in the fourth quarter produced the last Ram score.

The Bears' triumph was more decisive than the score indicates. They were deprived of another touchdown in the fourth period when Hall, attempting to pass, was hit for an eighteen yard loss by Plasman and fumbled. Al Forte, freshman guard from Montana State, recovered the ball and ran forty-five yards to the goal line, but the referee, whom the Bears had to correct on the professional penalty for offside within the 10 yard line in the first quarter, called the ball back and gave it to the Bears at the spot of the recovery. Under professional rules the defense can run with fumbles of this nature. There appeared to be no reason for disallowing the score except that the referee had blown his whistle out of turn.

Sox Score 3 Runs in 10th to Beat Cubs, 8-5

Both pitchers failed in earlier appearances in the series.

Cubs Get Early Start.

The Cubs made a run in each of the first three innings, a span in which the White Sox didn't get a runner on base. Hack opened the Cub offensive with a single and went to third on Herman's single. Hack scored on Galan's sacrifice fly.

G. Russell opened the second with a single to center, stole second and took third on a wild pitch. He scored on Mancuso's single to center.

After Herman had fanned in the third, Galan knocked the ball into the right field bleachers. Leiber followed with a single but nothing more happened in the inning.

The Sox wilted after a good start in the fourth. Bejma became the first Sox base runner after opening with a single and stopped at second on Kuhel's single. Kreevich then struck out. Appling went out on a nice play by Herman and Passeau and McNair fouled to Mancuso.

The Cubs stepped up the pace in their fourth. With one out Mancuso knocked his second single and took second on a passed ball. Passeau struck out. Hack singled to right, scoring Mancuso and when the ball went through Rosenthal to the wall, Hack reached third. Herman doubled to left, scoring Hack.

Dietrich took over the Sox pitching job in the fifth and immediately put an end to the score-every-inning policy of the Cubs.

Sox Get Under Way.

Kreevich's homer put the Sox in the scoring column in the sixth. With one out Kuhel was safe on Mattick's fumble. Kreevich then knocked the ball into the right field bleacher. Appling singled to left, but McNair flied to Galan and Walker popped to Mancuso.

Bejma walked at the start of the eighth and stopped at third on Kuhel's double to right center. Bill Lee replaced Passeau on the mound for the Cubs, and promptly walked Kreevich on five pitches, loading the bases. Appling then forced Kreevich, Bejma scoring. Walker was safe on Hack's fumble, loading the bases again. Rosenthal beat out an infield bouncer, Appling scoring the tying run as the bases remained loaded. Marcum batted for Tresh and whiffed. Dietrich also fanned on three pitches.

Comes the Big Tenth!

The Cubs went out in order in the eighth and both teams went out in order in the ninth. At the start of the tenth Galan backed against the wall in left center to pull down Appling's drive. McNair then was called out on strikes. Walker walked and stole second, whereupon Rosenthal was given an intentional pass. Schlueter then drove a double to right center, scoring Walker and Rosenthal. Schlueter then went to third on a passed ball and scored when Lee let Mancuso's return throw get away from him. Dietrich then ended the inning with a fly to Walker.

Packers' Early Attack Beats Chicago Cards

Cardinal tallies were the result of long passes.

The contest was only six minutes old when Green Bay obtained its first touchdown, going the full length of the field in one play. With the Packers pushed back to their 7 yard line by Frank Patrick's long punt, Arnold Herber faded behind the goal line and passed to Don Hutson, who received on the 22 yard line. He eluded the Cardinal secondary and ran seventy-eight yards for a ninety-three yard gain.

Passes contributed to Green Bay's second touchdown in the second quarter. Two of them, Cecil Isbell to Joe Laws, gained twenty-three yards, and Isbell then raced to the Cardinal 5 yard line. Laws added four yards and Hinkle plunged over. Hinkle's conversion made it 14 to 0. Late in the period the Cards made their only threat of the half, but a long pass from Jack Robbins, the former Arkansas back, to Rock Reed slipped off the latter's finger tips at the goal line.

The Cards served notice they had played below par in the first half by marching to Green Bay's 5 yard line early in the third quarter, but the drive stalled and Green Bay took the ball on downs. At this point Andy Uram broke through tackle and dashed 95 yards for Green Bay's third touchdown. Hinkle added the 21st point by placement.

Bill Smith Scores Twice.

The Cardinals monopolized the picture in the fourth quarter. On the first play Patrick passed twenty-five yards to Bill Smith, who raced thirty-five yards additional to bring Chicago its first touchdown. The latter also converted. Soon thereafter Isbell fumbled and Andy Sabados recovered for Chicago on Green Bay's 25 yard line. This time Robbins assumed the passing duties and found a target in Smith, who eluded Hutson, and crossed the goal for a touchdown. Smith again added the extra point, reducing the margin to 21 to 14.

At this stage Green Bay clinched the decision by counting again on Herber's pass to Hutson, after Don had returned a pass interception from Robbins to the Cardinal 6 yard line.

Robbins had a hand in the Cardinals' final rally. He intercepted a pass and returned thirty-eight yards to Green Bay's 27. Patrick gained twelve yards around end and then threw a ten yard pass to Marshall Goldberg across the goal. Smith's conversion attempt failed. The score remained 27 to 20 thereafter.

JUDGE, 17 SLEEK DOGS MAKE FIELD TRIAL A SUCCESS

Woman's Spaniel Rating Intrigues 1,000.

Stretched along the rim of the wooded arena, their tweeds and plaids mingling with the fall coloring of yellow ash and red sumac were nearly 1,000 men and women. Their interest was divided between the woman and the dogs which raced back and forth before her.

The spectators were watching the sixth annual field trial of the English Springer Spaniel Field Trial Club of Illinois. Because of the woman's prestige, the contest drew an unusually large entry and an unusually large number of sporting dog lovers. The event was won by Dalshangan Pomme de Terre, owned by David Silberman of Chicago and handled by Francis Hogan of Barrington.

The woman was Mrs. Walton Ferguson Jr., nationally known as a judge of springer spaniels and retrievers which she breeds, raises and trains at her home in Fairfield, Conn. It was the first time Mrs. Ferguson or any other woman judged at a field trial of springers in the central west.

She's Strict Judge.

And the men who watched Mrs. Ferguson and her two associates judging the 17 beautiful springers, as their liver and white coats flicked through the gray thickets, had this to say. She was very strict with all contestants, but she was also very fair.

The other judges who worked with Mrs. Ferguson were Arthur Welch of Milwaukee, Wis., and Glen Dundore of Plainfield. They were judging the open all-age stake in which all of the best dogs were entered. Dr. and Mrs. Paul Magnuson offered their estate for the trials.

The dogs were worked in braces, each with his own handler. On the same line, stretching 40 yards across the field, were the three

CHICAGO RUGBY TEAM BEATEN BY HOLLYWOOD, 13-11

20 Game Winning Streak Is Broken.

BY EDWARD PRELL.

Rain and a band of fifteen sun kissed Californians spoiled the Chicago rugby team's major league adventure last night in Soldier's field, but the 4,000 fans who braved the rain drops for 80 minutes saw a fancy exhibition of England's national game.

At the finish the Chicagoans appeared to be wearing down the Hollywood Light Horse club, but their spurt came too late and the final score was 13 to 11. Bewildered by a slashing, running, and passing attack in the first few minutes of the second half, Chicago rallied from a deficit of 13 to 3. They were even at the half, 3 to 3.

Sparky Ward of Hollywood engineered, unassisted, the outstanding play of the evening when he recovered a loose ball near the sidelines at the Chicago 40 yard line, raced to the middle of the field, and, on the dead run, sent a successful 35 yard drop kick over the bar for the four points that broke the 3-3 deadlock and started the Californians on their scoring spree.

Berwanger Leads Rally.

Mixed up in the late heroics was Jay Berwanger, who in the white shorts of the Chicago club, showed flashes of the running ability that made him known as the University of Chicago's one man team a few years ago. Berwanger made the closing sally in the last two minutes, picking up a loose ball and racing 20 yards to a try, the rugby term for a touchdown. With a chance to tie the score, Peter Fortune sent his place kick far to the right. The Californians escaped further damage.

The defeat was a bitter one for the Chicago club, its first in twenty games. With the victory went the unofficial national rugby title to the club operated by Victor McLaglen, the movie star.

Propose Wednesday Game.

Possibility of holding over the Hollywood team for another game Wednesday night was indicated when the rival managers scheduled a meeting for today to consider the proposal.

The fast up and down the field action with the assembled thirty players, fifteen to each side, furiously kicking at the ball, then scooping it up, kept the crowd gaping as though watching automobiles going around a race track. The nearest approach to a casualty was when John Leo, 286 pound Hollywood forward, tried to tackle Bob Childs, former Yale player and rated the hardest hitting back on the Chicago squad. Something happened. At any rate, the ponderous Californian was completely flattened, but he recovered within the alloted sixty seconds and stayed in the game.

Rain that fell just before game time not only held down the attendance, but made the footing uncertain and the ball slippery, but that only added to the joyous confusion.

Manhattans Tie Germans, 2 to 2, in Soccer Game

BY OFFSIDE.

The Manhattan Brewers, national soccer finalists last season, were held to a 2 to 2 tie by the German-Americans yesterday in the windup of a double header before 2,000 spectators in Pariachy stadium. The Spencer Coals defeated the Hakoahs in the opener, 3 to 2.

The Manhattans took the lead after six minutes of play when Roy Williamson crossed in front of J. Kuhl, who, in trying to clear, kicked past his own keeper. The German-Americans tied it up after 30 minutes when I. Mueller shot high over Leslie Griffith's head from 10 yards, and went into the lead in the second half on E. Benke's drive past Griffith from 20 yards. A penalty enabled the Manhattans to regain tie status on Weck Henn's goal with three minutes remaining.

Sparta continued its winning streak yesterday, defeating the Schwaben soccer team in Sparta stadium, 8 to 1. The American Eagles won from Forest Park on the latter's field, 4 to 0. Other scores:

WOMEN TO SHOOT IN ANTIAIRCRAFT SHOW TOMORROW

BY BOB BECKER.

When scores of small balloons are released during the antiaircraft exhibition to be held tomorrow night on 12th street beach spectators will see not only a group of expert men shooters in action, but also several of the best women shots in northern Illinois.

John Marzall, president of the Lincoln Park Gun club, announced yesterday that the organization had decided to include some of its most accomplished women marksmen in the squad which will fire at balloons in the course of a demonstration of rapid fire gunnery with 12, 16 and 20 gauge shotguns. These balloons, inflated with hydrogen, will be released to drift above the shotgun squad.

Artillery Will Take Part.

A skeet shooting exhibition by a picked squad of men and the balloon breaking stunt are the first events on the program. In the third part of the program the 202d Coast artillery will use its 3 inch antiaircraft guns to fire at an aerial target.

Mrs. J. L. Younghusband, 233 East Walton place, leading woman shooter of the Lincoln Park Gun club, will be one of the participants tomorrow night. Mrs. Younghusband has been shooting for less than two years, but already has won a number of championships.

Other Experienced Shooters Listed.

Other experienced women shooters who may be called upon are: Mrs. William D. Cox, Mrs. E. L. Marriage, Mrs. William V. Young, Mrs. W. G. Peacock Jr., Mrs. Potter Palmer II., Mrs. Potter Palmer III., Mrs. Joseph E. Otis Jr., Mrs. Mary Milligan, Mrs. W. L. Bourland, Miss Margaret Wolff, Mrs. Janet M. Dixon, Miss Betty Harbison, Mrs. Theodore Hardeen Jr., Mrs. John S. Miller, and Mrs. Bryan S. Reid. All of these shooters are members of the Lincoln Park Gun club.

Spectators will see the clay targets as well as the flight of the shotgun charges during the skeet and balloon shooting event. Floodlights will make the white targets visible and special tracer shells will be used.

Three inch antiaircraft guns and .30 caliber machine guns, to be manned by members of the 202d coast artillery of the Illinois National Guard, will defend the city against a high flying "bombing plane" in the remaining part of the exhibition. The actual target will be a sleeve, 40 feet long, which will be towed by the plane, spotted by giant searchlights.

YESTERDAY'S RESULTS.
Catholic [Joliet], 6; De La Salle, 0.
Leo, 0; Mount Carmel, 0.
Weber, 14; De Paul, 6.
Fenwick, 13; St. Mel, 7.
St. Ignatius, 26; St. Philip, 6.

Mount Carmel, defending champion in the Catholic high school football league, was held to a scoreless tie by Leo in a south section game yesterday in Shewbridge field. A capacity crowd of 10,000 witnessed the battle.

It marked the first time in twelve games since the origination of the series that either of the teams failed to score a touchdown.

In the first quarter Mount Carmel started a drive on their own 37 yard line and moved down to the Lions' 10 yard line before losing the ball on downs. The closest Leo came to the Carmel goal line was the 20 yard marker in the fourth period.

In other league games yesterday, Catholic High of Joliet won from De La Salle, 6 to 0; Weber turned back De Paul, 14 to 6; Fenwick triumphed over St. Mel, 13 to 7; and St. Ignatius routed St. Philip, 26 to 6.

Fenwick, defending champion in the north section, kept its record clean by rallying in the fourth quarter to win from St. Mel. Both Fenwick touchdowns were made by Korda. He was on the receiving end of passes thrown by Elder. The lone St. Mel marker was made by White on an 80 yard run in the opening period.

Weber, coached by Andy Pilney, was handed a scare by De Paul Academy, but a touchdown by Piotrowski in the final period on a plunge through center from the ten yard line gave Weber the decision, 14 to 6.

Yankees Rout Reds in Tenth for 4th Title

out of his hands. He turned and went in pursuit. He threw to the plate, Lombardi reached for the throw but was knocked flat on his pants by Keller as he scored. DiMaggio was half way to third by this time. Seeing Lombardi was in a daze, Coach Art Fletcher waved DiMaggio on his way. As Joe neared the plate, Lombardi, still sitting on the ground, made a reach for the ball. He reached too late.

DiMaggio and Dickey were retired in the fifth, making 14 in a row, before the world champions broke through Derringer's defense. Selkirk drove a long fly to right and for a moment it looked as if the Yankee power finally had arrived. But the ball hit the bleacher screen only inches from the top and dropped on the field for a two bagger. Then Gordon hit a wicked fly and Berger, who had just moved to center as replacement for the ailing Craft, affected a capture just in front of the 383 foot sign.

The Home Runs Arrive.

Derringer made two pitches in the seventh before the booming started. One of the pitches was a strike, the other a ball. Then Keller broke the spell with his homer into the right field bleachers. DiMaggio crashed the first pitch, the ball sailing far into left center, but it came down just inside the wall, where Simmons was waiting. Derringer threw one strike to Dickey and the home run thunder broke out again on the next pitch. Dickey clubbed it into the right center field end of the bleachers. Then Selkirk walked, but the Yanks couldn't take advantage of the gift. Simmons ran over against the field boxes to grab Gordon's fly and Dahlgren grounded to Frey.

The riotous Red seventh opened with McCormick's grounder, which Rolfe fumbled. A set of strikes sent Lombardi on his way and then Simmons came through with the two bagger—a low drive into left center—that put McCormick on third. He scored on Berger's infield tap, which Crosetti handled. Sundra gave Myers a more or less intentional pass.

Red Take 3 to 2 Lead.

Hershberger was slipped in as hitter for Derringer and looped a single into center, DiMaggio diving to make the catch, but missing. Simmons sprinted home from second with the tying run, Myers going to third. Werber rifled a singled to right and Myers registered. So Sundra went his way and Murphy fanned Frey to halt the uprising.

Only three Yanks faced Walters in the eighth and the Reds then proceeded to collect the run that made their victory seem only a matter of a few more minutes. Murphy's first three pitches to Goodman were wide and when the inevitable cripple was served Goodman spanked it into left center for a double. McCormick bunted him to third and the Yankee infield drew in for a possible play at the plate. But Lombardi singled cleanly into center, Goodman scoring. Both Simmons and Berger expired on infield taps.

Then the Yanks came charging back. Keller drilled a single through second. DiMaggio shot a single into left, Keller scooting to third. Dickey grounded to Frey, a sure double play ball. Frey tossed to Myers at second and in his haste to make the twin killing Myers dropped the ball, Keller scoring. Goodman raced back to the fence for Selkirk's fly, DiMaggio going to third after the catch. Werber made a great stop close to third on a hard grounder off Gordon's bat, saw there was no chance for a play at first base, so threw to the plate. DiMaggio beat the throw with the tying run. Dahlgren popped out and Murphy fanned to conclude the inning.

Lander Meets Lancaster in 10 Round Bout

Eddie Lander, west side junior lightweight, tonight will give Jimmy Lancaster of Newark, N. J., his first Chicago test in a ten round bout in Marigold Gardens, Broadway and Grace street.

Lander, who upset Nick Camarata, southern lightweight champion, last July 24 for his fifteenth triumph in nineteen starts, was greatly embarrassed by a defeat he suffered at the hands of Frankie [Kid] Covelli the following Aug. 21. It was Eddie's third setback and cost him his place among the first ten featherweights.

Hopes to Regain Old Place.

Thus Lander will be fighting to regain his old position as No. 9 challenger. In addition, a victory tonight will earn Eddie a match with Jimmy Perrin in New Orleans Oct. 23.

An idea of Lancaster's capabilities may be gleaned from the fact that he held Camarata to a draw in eight rounds in New York on Feb. 4.

Promoter Irving Schoenwald has signed Jimmy Sheppard, Peoria middleweight, to meet Rex Thomas of the south side in a six round secondary feature.

Ferrand Meets Ryan.

Everett Marshall, veteran heavyweight wrestler, will meet Seeli Samara in a one hour bout topping the mat card tonight in White City, 63d street and South Park avenue.

AUSTIN PLAYS MAYWOOD.

West Suburban semi-pro football's traditional meeting between the Austin Bears and the Maywood A. C. will be renewed Wednesday night at 8:30 o'clock at Harlem and North avenues.

Yanks Go Wild and M'Carthy Sheds a Tear

Cincinnati, O., Oct. 8 (AP).—Joseph Vincent McCarthy, 51 year old leader of the New York Yankees, was the happiest man in the baseball world tonight. Deacon Bill McKechnie, boss of his vanquished Cincinnati Reds, was the saddest.

McCarthy, with a tear in his eye, joined with the Yankees in the noisiest clubhouse victory celebration they have ever held. He was supremely happy because his players had just presented him with a fourth world's championship and their ninth consecutive world's series victory.

First of the Yankee players to storm into the dressing room were Shortstop Frank Crosetti, Left Fielder George Selkirk, and Second Baseman Joe Gordon. After yelling out a few piercing "yippees" and "hurrahs," the real celebration started.

In walked William Harridge, president of the American league, extending his hand in congratulation. McCarthy, rinsing a big chew of tobacco from his mouth, beamed.

"Just think, Mr. Harridge," he said, "this is our ninth straight world series victory. It's our fourth world's championship. No other team ever has done that. No other team had even won three until we did it last year."

McCarthy Praises Reds.

Asked if the series came out as he expected, McCarthy just grinned.

"Anytime you beat a couple of pitchers like Derringer and Walters," he said, "you have a tough job on your hands. We beat a helluva ball club."

Suddenly McCarthy spied Joe DiMaggio, whose single to right in the tenth inning broke up the game. DiMaggio, dripping wet from perspiration, was sitting on a trunk and sipping a cooling drink.

"The old 'dago' is O. K., McCarthy said, throwing his arms around the outfield star. "We'll have plenty of spaghetti in San Francisco this winter."

Up in the Recs' clubhouse was a team that knew it was whipped. Scarcely a word was said as the beaten players filed up. Even their spikes made muted sounds on the metal steps.

McKechnie Just Stares.

Manager McKechnie went into his office and sat in the swivel chair with his feet on the window sill. He stared out the window for some minutes. Once he muttered a short string of bitter words, but it was hard to tell if he was thinking of the Yankees, the Reds, or the luck that curdled.

Paul Derringer, already out of his shower, went in the office and sat at the edge of McKechnie's chair. The boss spanked him affectionately and they talked for a moment. Paul said, half to himself, half to Bill Werber, "You just can't make a mistake. I got Keller twice on easy ones and then I made one mistake. I can't be a machine all the time."

Downcast Reds Soothed by $4,282; Yanks Get $5,614

Cincinnati, O., Oct. 8 (AP).—The $5,614.26 each of the New York Yankees won today as the winner's individual share of the world series playing pool fell only $168.50 short of equaling the all-time high for players' shares in a four game series. The record of $5,782.76 was set last year as the Yankees took four straight from the Chicago Cubs. Players share only in receipts of the first four games.

Each of the losing Cincinnati Reds received $4,282.58, compared to the four game series record of $4,674.87 which each Cub received last year.

The all-time record winning player's share was $6,544.76, by the Detroit American league club in 1935, when the series went to six games.

Total receipts of the 1939 series, $745,329.09, was $105,836.91 short of last year's $851,166, but the $100,000 received for the broadcast came close to making up the difference.

Johnny Murphy, the Yankees' expert relief pitcher, received credit for the first world series victory of his career, although he saw action in relief roles in each of the last three sets. He entered the game in the seventh today, after Oral Hildebrand had retired because of an ailing side and Steve Sundra had been tagged for the Reds' first three runs.

Today's results gave the rival managers two records. For Joe McCarthy it was his fourth straight world's championship and he and the Yanks are the only manager and team ever to turn in that grand slam. It was Bill McKechnie's eighth straight defeat in world series games. McKechnie lost four in a row to the Yankees in 1928 with his pennant winning St. Louis Cardinals and then did it again this year with his Reds.

The right field bleacherites didn't think too much of Ival Goodman for letting Joe DiMaggio's hit get away from him in the fatal tenth. Goodman's territory was showered with cushions by the fans. Ernie Lombardi was jeered by the fans when he came to bat in the tenth. They remembered his "dying swan" act in the same inning when DiMaggio scored while the big catcher was still on the ground after being knocked down by Charley Keller as he scored.

ROAMERS WIN TWO.

The Chicago Roamers baseball team won a double header from the Berwyn Lakotas, 9 to 2 and 9 to 4, yesterday on the field at Maple avenue and 18th street.

A HORSE TRAINER JOGS 100 MILES TO CHAMPIONSHIP

40 Riders End Three Day Bridle Path Jaunt.

Paul Stjernholm, 4923 Kimbark avenue, a trainer at the stables of Albert W. Harris, rode 100 miles in three days to become Chicagoland's champion horseman.

He received his gold trophy yesterday at Dunham Woods riding club, near Wayne. His only ill effect of the ride, he said, was a mild case of chapped lips.

Stjernholm, one of 40 riders out of 48 who brought their horses in after the ride over Cook and Du Page county forest preserve trails, through marshes, brush, streams, and paved crossroads, is a former riding master at Dunham Woods. He is bronzed, shy, and 43 years old, and has been riding, he said, for 39 of them.

7 Hour Time Limit.

The ride was sponsored by the Town and Country Equestrian association and the Horse and Mule Association of America. It was the second such contest. It was planned to encourage the use of good saddle horses for trail riding and to demonstrate the proper method of training and conditioning horses for a long trip. It was not a race, although contestants were allowed but seven hours to ride 40 miles, and were penalized for each minute of overtime.

Three small bay Arabian horses owned by Harris, who is president of the Harris Trust and Savings bank, won prizes in this year's ride.

Frank Owen of Lake Geneva, a Harris rider, won first prize in the light weight division with Laila, an 8 year old mare. Second prize went to Kern, a Harris horse ridden by Emil Franck of Williams Bay, Wis.

21 Prizes Awarded.

In the heavy weight division Red Cloud, a half thoroughbred horse ridden by T. L. J. Klapp Jr. of Glenview, won first prize, and Conquistador, a huge hunter ridden by Miss Josephine Cunningham of 5324 Dorchester avenue, placed second.

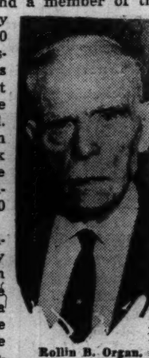
Twenty-one prizes were awarded and seven went to women riders.

Special care of the horses during the ride was directed by Roberts Mann, superintendent of maintenance of the Cook county forest preserves. No artificial stimulation or applications of liniment were permitted.

"That was for the horses you understand," said Mann, wryly. "There was no rule against liniment for the riders."

ROLLIN B. ORGAN, 95, A CIVIL WAR NAVY HERO, DIES

Rollin B. Organ, a naval veteran of the civil war, and a member of the Cook county board from 1900 to 1904, died yesterday in his home at 920 East 44th street. He was 95 years old. He retired in 1900 as live stock agent for the Nickel Plate railroad after 20 years' service.



Rollin B. Organ.

Mr. Organ enlisted in the navy in Chicago in 1861. He became a coxswain on a gunboat. He served in the siege of Vicksburg and was wounded in action in the Red River campaign.

Mr. Organ was an early advocate of a forest preserve and a lecturer on insect life. A sister, Mrs. Minnie McNally, Omaha, Neb., survives. Funeral services will be held at 8 p. m. tomorrow in the Woodlawn Masonic temple. Burial will be in Washington, Ia., his old home.

Dr. Wagner died Saturday night in his home at 6222 North Lakewood avenue. For thirty-seven years he practiced medicine in his office at 677 North Clark street. Dr. Wagner was graduated from Northwestern university pharmacy school in 1895 and the medical school in 1899. He was on the staf of the Henrotin hospital and during the war served as a captain in the army medical corps. He was a member of Equity lodge, No. 878, A. F. & A. M. NEWS OF FINANCE AND COMMERCE

EUROPE TURNING TO AMERICA FOR CORN SUPPLIES

Export of Soy Beans Also Increases.

Europe once more is turning to the United States for sizable quantities of corn, and also is buying American soy beans in increasing amounts, grain men said yesterday. They reported the new trend at a time when midwestern corn bins are bulging and soy bean growers are harvesting the largest crop in history.

Traders said that the war has been an important influence in creating a demand for the American crops, and that part of the reviving business in corn has come to this country at the expense of Argentina. Before the war began Europe bought much corn in Argentina, the price there being lower than in this country.

War Boosts Freight Rates.

However, the war has hoisted shipping and ocean insurance rates so much that the final cost of getting a bushel of corn to European ports from America is less than that from Argentina. This is because the ocean shipping distance from the United States is shorter.

Grain traders had no figures on the extent of corn exports since the beginning of the war, but said millions of bushels had been shipped. The British government alone was said to have bought some millions of bushels of corn, but for shipment largely from Canadian ports. Lake shipments of corn from Chicago to Canadian ports last week totaled 1,072,000 bushels.

In an analysis of the wheat market, B. W. Snow, crop expert, said that while the war provides an incentive for buying wheat, it does not itself result in extremely high prices unless the supply and demand situations also point in that direction.

Gen'l Motors Federal Trial to Open Today

BY BRUCE DENNIS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

South Bend, Ind., Oct. 8.—Trial of the government's antitrust case against the General Motors corporation will begin here tomorrow with the selection of a jury in northern Indiana federal District court. Judge Walter C. Lindley of Danville, Ill., will preside.

Judge Walter C. Lindley.

General Motors, three affiliated companies, and 19 individuals, including Alfred P. Sloan Jr., chairman, and William S. Knudsen, president of General Motors, were named in an indictment returned May 27, 1938, by a federal grand jury in South Bend. The government charges the defendants with conspiracy to violate the Sherman antitrust law.

Similar indictments have been returned against the Ford Motor company and the Chrysler corporation. It was charged the "Big Three" among motor makers conspired to promote monopoly by coercing dealers to finance car sales through the companies' own finance firms.

The department of justice dropped its case against Ford and Chrysler on Nov. 15, 1938, when a consent decree was approved by Federal Judge Thomas W. Slick in District court here.

General Motors, according to department of justice officials, did not offer an "acceptable" program for a consent decree. They also announced that the Ford and Chrysler companies would not be held to terms of the consent decrees if the case against General Motors is unsuccessful.

Affiliates of the General Motors corporation named in the indictment were the General Motors Sales corporation, the General Motors Acceptance corporation, and the General Motors Acceptance Corporation of Indiana.

VALLEY GROUP TO ACT ON RATE AND COAL ISSUES

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 8 (AP).—Action on two measures affecting inland waterways is expected to touch off one of the liveliest meetings in the 21 year history of the Mississippi Valley association here next week.

The convention, which will start next Sunday and last through Tuesday, also is expected to urge the enactment of a new rivers and harbors authorization bill at the next session of congress.

CHICAGOAN WINS ILLINOIS LAURELS AS TRUCK DRIVER

Peoria, Ill., Oct. 8 [Special].—Charles Zimmerman, 4043 South Richmond street, Chicago, today won the truck driving championship of Illinois in a competition with 16 other drivers from nine cities. Eric Strandlund, also of Chicago, tied Zimmerman in the final contest and lost in a run-off.

The contest consisted of maneuvering huge trailer trucks in small parking places and backing into loading docks with only inches of clearance.

Zimmerman has been an employé of the Cushman Motor Delivery company, Chicago, for nine years and has driven 200,000 miles in the last seven years without an accident.

Zimmerman will represent Illinois truckers in a "world championship" contest in Chicago Oct. 22 and 23 during the convention of the American Trucking association.

WHY INTEREST IS LOW.

Interest rates in most banks back in the '70s, '80s and '90s were 6 per cent annually on savings of wage earners. Kindly explain why the banks now and for some years back have not paid 4 per cent or even 2 per cent. I think banks ought to be convinced they are public servants. Can this condition last much longer?
—H. U.

Answer: Banks pay low interest today because they receive low interest on the money they loan. Money deposited in banks is money loaned to banks; the banks then loan this money to others. The interest banks pay on their deposits is dependant upon the interest they receive on their loans.

Interest rates will rise when there is an increased demand upon the part of industry for loans from banks. This demand has been small in recent years. Banks, therefore, are forced to loan their money to the government, from which the interest return is low.

Banks are not responsible for this condition. They would like to see a change. They will be able to pay higher interest rates to depositors [wage earners and everybody else] only when they receive higher interest rates themselves. The prevailing low interest rates are fostered by deliberate government policy.

HORSES.

I would appreciate information on Narragansett Racing association.
—J. S.

Answer: Narragansett Racing association, Inc., owns a race track at Pawtucket, R. I. Major part of revenues is derived from operation of pari-mutuel betting facilities, although the company is chartered to conduct horse shows and other exhibitions "for the improvement of horse breeding."

A business of this type frequently is involved in state politics. The state may deny, suspend or revoke the company's permit at any time. There are stables for about 1,350 horses and the grandstand and clubhouse have a seating capacity of about 14,000.

Nazi Oil Plan Upset by War; Can Russ Aid?

Washington, D. C., Oct. 8 [Special]. Cut off from many of her foreign oil sources by the war, and facing an increasing need for fuel for her military machine, Germany has no very certain prospects of getting much help from the oil resources of soviet Russia, the United States department of commerce indicated today. The department published a study of German foreign sources of crude and refined petroleum submitted by its attaché in Berlin.

The attaché said the recent commercial agreement with Russia theoretically opens up a new source, but a doubtful one.

Experts Are Worried.

The Reich, faced with growing needs, the report said, has decided it must postpone its program calling for self-sufficiency in oil by 1942 through synthetic production and is looking, although none too hopefully, at the Russian source.

German inability to supply large quantities of finished products in exchange for Russia's oil, and the fact that the Russian petroleum output has not increased in the last six years despite increased domestic demand, have given the German experts some cause for worry, the report added. These same German authorities, the department report said, show uneasiness over the lack of skilled operation of Russia's wells and refineries.

MAKE USE OF WAR LULL

[Copyright: 1939: By the New York Times.]

BERLIN, Oct. 8 [Special].—German industry and trade are availing themselves now of the lull between the termination of the war in Poland and the start of any important fighting in the west for readjustment to war conditions.

A daily flow of war economic decrees, with further drastic restrictions on use of raw materials, indicates that the government is resolved to be prepared for the worst and to keep the people on minimum rations from the outset. There is conclusive evidence, moreover, that the food authorities are continuing to build up stocks of butter and other products.

Prominent export houses in Hamburg and Bremen, which for the second time within 25 years are facing collapse of their overseas business, are making feverish efforts to revamp their organizations for trading with Russia, the southeast, and Scandinavia.

PREDICT STEEL OUTPUT TO RISE ABOVE 90 PCT.

Rate Now Highest Since May, 1937.

A national steel operating rate of 90 per cent of theoretical capacity or better is indicated for coming weeks, the magazine Steel said yesterday in its weekly review of the industry. The survey said steelmaking last week advanced 3½ points, to 87½ per cent, the highest rate since May, 1937, and up 25½ points in a month.

The 31 blast furnaces were lighted in September, the largest number in so short a period in seventeen years, the survey said.

Prices continued to advance, with Steel's scrap composite moving up $1.41, to $22.16 per ton, highest in 15 years. The magazine said the upward trend is leveling off, however.

Railway Buying Levels.

Railroad buying also has begun to level off, although automobile makers are taking more steel each week.

Figures published by the American Iron and Steel institute yesterday disclosed the reason for the large volume of foreign inquiries for American steel since the war began in Europe.

The statistics, obtained from data published by the British Iron and Steel federation, showed that the nations now at war exported more than half the total world steel exports from January, 1936, to June, 1939.

Steel Exports Compared.

Total exports in that period from England, France, Germany, and Poland averaged 6,990,000 gross tons yearly, and were nearly four times the average amount of steel exported by the United States in the same period.

Germany accounted for 45 per cent of the exports of the four nations; England, 30 per cent; France, 21 per cent, and Poland, 4 per cent.
